Two-Ocean Navy Measure Given House Approval

Also Proposes New Planes, Equipment For Army of 2 Million

Washington—(P)—The house gave its approval today to a compromise version of a bill carrying almost $5,250,000,000 to provide equipment for an army of 2,000,000 men, start work on the "two-ocean" navy and buy 14,394 airplanes for the army and navy.

The measure, which must go back to the senate for approval of house changes before it is ready for President Roosevelt's signature, will boost the session's appropriations and commitments for defense well past the $15,000,000,000 mark.

Shortly before completing its action on the bill, the house agreed to elimination of a provision which would have repealed a section of the recently-enacted navy "speed up" bill empowering the secretary of the navy to commandeer industrial plants under certain conditions.

Representative Woodrum (D-Va.) explained that it was deemed advisable to let the commandeering authority stand because the whole question would be settled under the pending conscription bill. The repealer was eliminated by a standing vote of 143 to 75.

Two-Ocean Navy
The $15,000,000,000 plus total for the sessions since Jan. 3, includes direct appropriations, contract authorizations and other legislative commitments. It covers the $4,610,000,000 authorized for creation of a two-ocean navy, most of which is to be provided over the next four or five years.

In its action today, the house also approved a $220,109,030 increase for new flying fields and housing for army, navy and national guard personnel and national defense workers. Of the total, $128,000,000 was for the national guard in connection with recent mobilization of some of its units.

With the spectacle of a hard-fought fight on the floor to testify to the shortness of some tempers, the house began its final drive today for a decision on the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill.

Vote by Sections
Two days of general debate over the chamber settled down to consider the measure section by section and to act on the scores of pending amendments. The vote on conscription was expected tomorrow night or Saturday.

Sponsors of the bill, rechecking their strength, made sharp downward revisions in earlier predictions that it would pass by 150 votes. Although still insisting it would not be defeated, they said they now expected the bill's margin would be from 50 to 75 votes.

The tense feelings engendered by the conscription debate burst into the open last night when the epithet "traitor" was spoken and the house upheld Representative Vincent (D-Ky.) and Representative Sweeney (D-Ohio) throwing punches at each other.

Profits Bill Under Attack

Committee Told It Would Endanger U. S. Defense Program

Washington—(P)—A United States Chamber of Commerce official told the senate finance committee today that the pending excess profits tax bill was "discriminatory" and would "jeopardize the national defense program."

The witness, Ellsworth C. Alvord, chairman of the chamber's committee on federal finance, urged the senators to separate from the bill and pass "without further delay" provisions for liberalizing amortization requirements for defense manufacturing facilities.

"Under the guise of taxing 'excess profits,'" the witness said, "the bill is designed to raise revenue from reasonable, essential profits which are not in any sense excessive nor related in any way to the defense program."

Nearly 50 other witnesses, most of them representing individual business or industries, were allotted 10 minutes each in which to testify, and the committee announced that hearings would be included this evening.

Claims Evidence Is Sufficient to Bring Suit Against Heil

Milwaukee—(P)—Counsel for the Stafford-Governor club said today a court commissioner's hearing today that sufficient testimony had been obtained to form the basis for a lawsuit against Governor Heil and Outdoor Displays, Inc., in connection with the painting over of a Stafford political sign.

The attorney, Gregory Gramling, said he would file a complaint in circuit court next week, charging conspiracy and breach of contract. Charles E. Hinkson, salesman for the company, was submitted to adverse examination before court commissioner Winifred C. Zabel. He was questioned concerning telephone conversations he had with Gramling and others on Aug. 7, the day after the Stafford sign had been painted over.

10,000 Pack Pierce Park to Hear Barber Shop Quartet Tournament

Crowd Enjoys Community Singing, Varied Program

BY DON ANDERSON

Well, next year there will be more seals

Echoes of the Post-Crescent Barber Shop Quartet tournament are still ringing across the city today after a crowd variously estimated at from ten to fifteen thousand people stormed Pierce park last to enjoy a sparkling program of male quartet harmony and special acts and to open up on just about the best community singing ever recorded in these parts.

To the members of the quartets, trios, and quintet that formed the nucleus of the night's entertainment goes plenty of praise for the manner in which they handled their songs, for their stage presence, and for their voluntary appearance on an untimed and unrehearsed program.

To the crowd that so far exceeded expectations that those who were handling the tournament were nothing short of stupefied goes the credit for encouraging the singing groups.

The German band, and the special acts by its friendly attention and its response to all that was offered. It was a gag, of course, but there was more than just kidding behind the announcement of the judges that the crowd won "first prize" for its singing. With more than half of their number standing or sitting on the ground, the spectators were flawless in the courtesy they showed the singers and generous in the applause they gave them.

Last night's quartet tournament was more or less of an experiment—up to last night. Today it boasts of a Hollywood title like "smash hit" or "blazing success." And the fellows who came up last night, encircled the mike, and gave out with some swell and elegant harmony, really "put it over."

If you weren't at Pierce park last night, you probably noticed your neighborhood was pretty quiet. It seemed as though the whole city closed up shop and headed for the park to listen in on the quartets. There were about 3,500 seats available. They were taken care of by 7:30. 45 minutes before the program's start, and the crowd was beginning to swell around the edges. By 8:15 it was evident that the crowd was going to set some kind of a record, which it did. Harold Jerke, park superintendent, reported it was the biggest gathering he has seen in Pierce park at any one time.

The program had worlds of color, comedy, and smooth harmony.

Agree to Limited Rights for Japan

Hong Kong—(P)—Authoritative neutral quarters at Hanoi reported tonight the Vichy government of France had agreed to grant Japan limited right to land troops and supplies at Haiphong and move them over the Indo-China railway to the Chinese border.

This was said to be subject to conferences now resumed between French colonial officials and Major General Isaku Nishihara, Japan's negotiator-in-chief.

The Japanese army wanted to act with a full fledged landing and said so in an ultimatum presented Monday.

In do-China's governor-general, Admiral Jean Decoux, one informant said, consented to meet Nishihara only after Japan gave assurances that her army would not strike in accord with the ultimatum.

Mrs. Vincent Astor Wins Divorce Decree

Cody, Wyo.—(P)—Vincent Astor, head of one of America's wealthiest families, has been divorced by Mrs. Helen Dinsmore Astor, his wife for 26 years.

Mrs. Astor was granted a divorce on the grounds of mental cruelty after a brief hearing yesterday before District Judge Percy W. Metz.

A secret property settlement between Astor, who inherited a $75,000,000 fortune, and his wife was arranged out of court.

8 World War Destroyers on Way to Canada

First Group in Deal With Great Britain Sails From Boston

Boston—(P)—Sailing from Boston under secret orders, eight World war destroyers, presumed to be the first of fifty traded to Great Britain for air and naval bases, were on the high seas today, believed en route to a Canadian port.

Departing coincidentally from Boston were the new destroyer leader, Russell, with Rear Admiral F. L. Reichmuth, commander of the Atlantic destroyer fleet, aboard, and the supply ship Denebola. Water-front sources speculated they might return with the skeleton crews of American sailors engaged in delivering the old destroyers.

When the destroyer deal was announced by President Roosevelt, it was stated eight of the vessels would be ready for delivery by today, and the navy and private shipyards worked feverishly to keep that schedule. Only one of the out-moded destroyers remained in port, but others of the 50 were expected.

Manned by American skeleton crews of about sixty men each, who will be replaced by British tars, the first three vessels sailed at dusk yesterday.

Nip 'Plot' to Delay Opening of Schools

Schenectady, N. Y.—(P)—A "plot" to delay school opening was uncovered when authorities, on the eve of resumption of classes, discovered all doorknobs on entrances of two schools missing.

A new supply thwarted the attempt to prolong summer vacation.

Mayor's Veto Upheld; State Gets Insurance

The council last night voted to uphold the veto by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., of its August 23 action in renewing $127,530 of fire insurance on city buildings, then voted, 9 to 8, to place the insurance with the state.

Needing a three-fourths vote to override the mayor's veto, the advocates of renewal could only muster 10, with 13 necessary. Alderman McGulan being absent when the vote was taken. Voting to uphold the veto were Aldermen Doerfler, Feavel, Keller, Lutz, Rehfeldt, Thompson and Weinkauf, with Aldermen Vanderheyden, Knuyt, Franzke, Brautigam, Douglas, Roemer, Bogan, Wichmann, Kittner and DeLand voting to override.

The mayor's veto message repeated two previous recommendations of the insurance committee that a mutual company be given the insurance and a saving of $538 achieved. It suggested also the city consider setting up an insurance fund of its own.

Vote for State Fund
Voting to place the insurance with the state, which Alderman DeLand would save 50 per cent of the premium, compared to 40 per cent in the mutual company, were Aldermen Brautigam, DeLand, Franzke, Kittner, Knuyt, Thompson, Vanderheyden, Wichmann and Douglas with Aldermen Keller, Feavel, Lutz, Rehfeldt, Doerfler, Lutz, Weinkauf and Eogan in opposition.

Before the vote on sustaining the veto Alderman Vanderheyden spoke in favor of overriding it. He

Churchill Thinks Hitler Will Attempt to 'Pay U. S. Out'

New Bases Guard America, He Says Before Commons

London—(P)—Winston Churchill declared to his parliament today that the British-American exchange of destroyers and defense bases will enable the United States "to take danger by the throat whilst it is still hundreds of miles away"—but he warned the British to remember that America is not in the war.

Speaking in the midst of a general London air raid alarm, he declared that the British-United States agreement to trade destroyers and defense bases had won "the general satisfaction" of the peoples of both nations.

The prime minister's war statement was delayed 45 minutes by the second German air raid of the day, and while the house waited, in adjournment, a defiant raider traced a cross of white smoke across the blue sky above the city.

But without waiting for the "all clear," commons reassembled and Churchill began to speak. The prime minister said "there is no doubt, Hitler will not like this transfer of destroyers; no doubt he will pay the U. S. A. out if ever he gets the chance."

Law Not Violated
He was referring to the 50 destroyers which the United States traded Britain for eight naval and air bases.

The transfer of destroyers did not constitute "the slightest violation of international law" or affect "in the smallest degree the nonbelligerency of the United States," Churchill declared.

The all clear signal sounded while the prime minister was speaking. There will be no delay in bringing the destroyers into active service, Churchill declared.

He announced that Britain's civilian casualties during August air attacks were 1,000.

Infantile Paralysis Cases Increase in 2 Southern Counties

Madison—(P)—State board of health workers seeking to check an outbreak of poliomyelitis, turned their attention today to Sauk and Rock counties in which 21 persons have been stricken with the disease. "Seven new cases have been reported from Janesville since last Saturday," said Dr. Albert Edwards, epidemiologist, "making that area a new center of prevalence."

Dr. Edwards added that another "center" had developed in Sauk county from which 14 cases had been reported in the last two weeks.

Lansing, Mich.—(P)—Dr. Arthur W. Newitt, director of epidemiology for the Michigan Health Department, today advised that the opening of schools in areas where infantile paralysis is prevalent be delayed, unless local conditions warrant sending youngsters back to classes.

Dr. Newitt, returning from a tour of Michigan localities that have experienced severe outbreaks of poliomyelitis, said he believed the outbreak in Michigan had passed, but urged caution in opening schools unless the local situation indicates children would be safer in classes.

Two More Convicts Slain in Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark.—(P)—Bullets today cancelled two more convicts' names from the "wanted" list of Arkansas' wholesale, LaSalle day prison break.

State patrol headquarters here announced guards from the Cummins prison farm shot to death two of the fugitives in rural southeastern Arkansas, and reported capture of another felon.

Patrol Radio Operator Luke Barber said those killed were James Scott, 31, and Raymond Harrell, 23. He said the man recaptured was B. G. Holtzclaw, 47, a convicted slayer.

This left at large only 11 of the 36 men who broke from the Cummins farm Monday after killing a guard. Four have been shot to death, 21 recaptured.

Italians Report Naval Clash on Mediterranean

Rome—(P)—A series of furious naval and air engagements with British forces in which Italian MAS (motor torpedo boats) participated "successfully" was reported in Africa and the Mediterranean by the Italian high command today.

It told of British air and naval bombardments of Italian bases in the Dodecanese islands, off the coast of Turkey, and Italian attacks on three British naval and merchant ship formations.

Mexicans Fear Armed Outbreak

Government Acts to Prevent Disorders; Patrols Highways

Mexico City—(P)—The administration of President Cardenas took precautions today to forestall any public disorders as a result of the claims of General Juan Andreu Almazan's political supporters that he was elected Cardenas' successor in the July election.

A statement by Angel Trechuelo, who claimed to be an executive of Almazan's party, that an armed attempt to seize power might shortly begin was repudiated by the Almazan party. Emilio Madero, head of the party, said he had "never heard" of Trechuelo, and had heard no such reports.

The government patrolled highways, watched airports and kept all trains under surveillance to check on movements of Almazan's followers, while responsible sources reported troop reinforcements were being moved to northern Mexico regarded as an Almazan stronghold.

Graciano Sanchez, head of the national confederation of 3,000,000 peasants, announced 80,000 trained members were ready to take up their rifles in support of the administration, which backed General Manuel Vela Camacho against Almazan in the disputed and bloody July presidential election.

Single Term Is Advocated

College President Thinks U. S. Facing 'Caesarism' Threat

Washington—(P)—William Mathews Lewis, president of Lafayette college, urged a single presidential term today as a means of preventing what he called "Caesarism" in the United States.

Lewis testified before a senate judiciary subcommittee considering legislation to limit presidential service to a single six year period for any individual.

"If a man can be elected president three times, why not four or five or six?" Lewis said. "Soon the (people's) allegiance is thrown to a person—not to a party or to the nation, and Caesarism ensues."

Lewis said his views resulted from a "long-standing conviction based on a study of political trends throughout the world."

"A single term," he said, "would enhance the dignity of the office. It is not an edifying spectacle to see the president and his cabinet descend into the political arena to be a target for mud-slinging and to return the compliments with interest."

One reason young people are cynical about government, the educator said, is "the low opinion they gain of public men during political campaigns."

Takes Driving Lesson And Then Takes Auto

Eugene, Ore.—(P)—William E. Anderson handed over $477, but the robber didn't stop there. Climbing behind the steering wheel of Anderson's car he forced him to give a driving lesson. After learning how to shift gears and other details he drove off—without Anderson.

37 British Seamen Tell How Torpedoes Sank Two Vessels

Baltimore—(P)—Thirty-seven haggard and disheveled British seamen, eight of them injured, told a grim tale today of the war at sea.

Landed here unexpectedly last night by the Swedish freighter Enkaren, they were the sole survivors of crews of two British vessels, the 4,000 ton freighter Blairemore and the royal navy sloop Penzance, both torpedoed and sunk Aug. 24 about 700 miles off the Irish coast. More than 100 of their shipmates were lost.

Their stories pieced together through a wall of censorship clamped down by British consular officials, indicated the eight injured

Germans Report Six Destroyers Sent to Bottom

London—(P)—The admiralty announced today that two destroyers, the Ivanhoe and Esk, had been sunk by torpedoes and mines and that a third, the Express, had been damaged.

Schiphol airdrome, Amsterdam's airport, has been bombed "out of existence," Dutch circles said today they were told by a neutral traveler just arrived from the Netherlands and Germany's Ruhr.

Berlin—(P)—Six British destroyers have been sunk recently by U-boat and torpedo boat flotillas, the high command said today, as Adolf Hitler's Volkischer Beobachter, bellwether of the German press, declared Britain's acquisition of 50 United States destroyers might be used "only to cover the eventual glorious retreat" to America.

The high rate of destruction of Britain's smaller warships was emphasized by the high command as German planes striking back at the British whose bombs killed a score of persons in raids last night on Berlin and other parts of Germany, were reported centering day attacks on airports in the suburbs of London.

A special communiqué said a destroyer of the Imogen class (1,370 tons) was sunk by a torpedo boat flotilla in an attack yesterday on a British convoy from which 39,000 tons of shipping were shot.

The regular communiqué said three more destroyers, the Esk and Express of the 1,375-ton Eclipse class, and the Ivanhoe of the 1,370-ton Imogen class, had been newly sunk by German submarines, which also took a toll of 27,000 tons of merchant shipping from "one strongly protected" convoy.

Britain has announced the loss of 30 destroyers in the war, but with replacements and the addition of the 50 destroyers she acquired

Girl Facing Trial on Charges of Trying to Help Prisoners Flee

Fond du Lac—(P)—Miss Alma Letourneau, 19, of Fond du Lac, was bound over to circuit court for trial following a preliminary hearing yesterday on charges of assisting two prisoners in a county jail escape attempt.

The girl was accused of smuggling a number of hacksaw blades on Aug. 16 to Michael Swinoff and George D. Shanks, members of the 61st Coast artillery of Ft. Sheridan, Ill., who were being held pending trial on auto theft charges.

Victim of Shooting Accident Succumbs

Green Bay—(P)—Robert Phelps, 10, of Green Bay, wounded in a Labrador crow hunting accident, died in a local hospital today. His brother, John, 17, was unloading a 12 gauge shotgun when it accidentally discharged and the load penetrated Robert's abdomen.

Wide Gains Recorded On Share Exchange

New York—(P)—In the most active session since mid-June the stock market recorded new wide gains today on an extension of Wednesday's buying movement.

Many trading leaders pushed up $1 to around $4 a share in the face of profit selling. Transactions topped a million shares for the first time since June 28.

The market seemed to have cast off its long standing suspense and fear for a more hopeful appraisal of the foreign situation and the domestic industrial outlook.

Bank Cashier Admits $5,000 Embezzlement

Neillsville—(P)—Lester Schulz, assistant cashier of the Citizens' State bank of Loyall at Granton, was bound over to circuit court after he pleaded guilty yesterday to embezzlement of more than $5,000 of the bank's funds. His circuit court appearance was set for Friday.

Mme. Lupescu Is Banished From Country

Bucharest—(P)—Haggard from the struggle to preserve his dismembered, anarchy-riven realm, King Carol II of Rumania surrendered his vast powers of state today to a new strong man and was authoritatively reported to have consented to banishment of red-haired Magda Lupescu.

Government quarters expressed belief that Carol might abdicate soon. Madame Lupescu, his long-time friend, was reported already aboard the royal yacht, now anchored at Istanbul. She was said to have left Bucharest four days ago.

With the coming of dawn, the 46-year-old monarch who had lived down the name "playboy prince" with a decade of strong-handed rule, reached a "royal understanding" with a tough, strategy-minded general, Ion Antonescu, whose price for success was a transfer of power.

Map What Program
With what General Antonescu called "royal graciousness," Carol signed a public declaration which was a clear acknowledgment that the essence of rule had changed hands and Antonescu proclaimed a nationalistic program "to heal the wounds, collect our strength and assure our future."

On high authority it was reported that Carol had bowed to the demand of the iron-willed, army-supported new premier that his Madame Lupescu (long credited with being a power behind the Rumanian throne) be banished from the troubled kingdom.

The king, for 10 years a strong ruler of his kingdom, yielded supreme power to General Antonescu, a nationalist supported both by the army and the fascist Iron Guard, which was charged with plotting to overthrow Carol earlier this week.

Reports of Madame Lupescu's presence on the royal yacht circulated soon after parliament was dissolved and the constitution suspended by royal decree to pave the way for Antonescu's assumption of a virtual absolute dictatorship.

Threatens to Abdicate
In the long night session during which Carol and the new strong man were closeted behind locked doors, the king told his premier-designate he would abdicate if Madame Lupescu had to be banished from Rumania, Rumanians said.

Madame Lupescu is bitterly opposed by both the Iron Guard and the army, organizations which have jumped to new power in the wake of popular opposition to Rumania's cession under direction of the Rome-Berlin axis of northern Transylvania to Hungary.

These events occurred swiftly today even as Hungarian troops were moving into their newly-won territory.

Government quarters expressed belief Carol might abdicate soon, especially in view of the fact he had restricted himself overnight to only minor powers. This was done upon insistence of General Antonescu, who, just out of imprisonment for his nationalistic political activity, had demanded that he himself assume supreme power.

Peasants Slain
Reports reached the capital that more than 150 Hungarian and Rumanian peasants had been slain in armed clashes at the border town of Sighet as the Hungarians marching into northern Transylvania.

The reports said the fight began when a group of Rumanian peasants was attacked by Hungarian demonstrators.

Mobs of Rumanian peasants were reported armed with all manner of weapons.

In Cluj, two Rumanian students were reported killed in clashes with Hungarians, in retaliation from which five Hungarians were slain by Rumanian mobs.

Antonescu, upon assuming office, almost immediately appealed to the public to remain calm. He assured

Willkie Oils Up Gears for 8-Week Drive

Invites Republican Chiefs of 22 States To Discuss Problems

By THEODORE F. KOOP

Rushville, Ind.—(AP)—Exactly two months before the presidential election, Wendell L. Willkie called on Republican leaders from 22 states today to "get an aggressive, organized campaign under full steam."

He invited nearly 100 national committee men, committeewomen and state chairmen to discuss organizational problems with him over heaping plates of fried chicken, cream gravy and mashed potatoes—his favorite menu.

The meeting was described in advance by the Republican presidential nominee as the largest of its kind planned for this year. It was designed primarily to cover states outside the solid south which he will not visit in his forthcoming western tour.

"This campaign is not an ordinary one," said Willkie in a brief talk prepared for the luncheon. "It is a crusade for national unity, rehabilitation of the domestic economy and building of national defense."

Speed Up Drive
He explained to reporters, however, that the gathering was not intended basically to consider party policy but to "get the party organization into high gear."

National Chairman Joseph W. Martin sent word at the last minute that Congressional duties would keep him in Washington, but John Hamilton, the national committee's executive director, was among those coming here for the meeting. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, an unsuccessful contender for the presidential nomination, also accepted an invitation.

Willkie asked as many of the group as possible to talk with him individually, but to all he extended this message:

"Go back to your states and have meetings with your county leaders. Then get them to have similar meetings with precinct workers."

"I have received fine reports from various parts of the country of tremendous enthusiasm and interest. But that is not enough. There must be organization in nation, state, county and precinct."

To Meet Editors
Willkie will meet tomorrow with Midwest farm editors. He talked yesterday with 57 members of the labor division of the Michigan Republican committee. Leslie Butler of Lansing, Republican state chairman, told reporters that two-thirds of the group "undoubtedly voted for Roosevelt in 1936."

"I was glad to see," Willkie said afterward, "that they understood what really is involved in this campaign—the preservation of our American way and free enterprise under which both labor and capital prosper."

C. L. Daniels of Grand Rapids, announcing that the delegation had pledged full support to the Republican candidate, said Willkie told the closed meeting that he was "opposed to conscription of labor or government supervision of labor unions."

He granted the right of labor to organize," Daniels added, "and said that it was one that could not be taken away without government control, to which he is opposed."

Dr. Frank Returns to Campus to Give Speech
Madison—(AP)—Dr. Glenn Frank set foot on the University of Wisconsin campus yesterday for the first time since he was ousted as its president by the board of regent in January, 1937.

Dr. Frank, campaigning for the Republican nomination for United States senator, spoke on a radio program from WFA, state-owned station. Addressing Wisconsin youth, he said:

"For 12 years on this campus I faced the baffling problems that faced youth. We must see to it that the American future holds something better for sons and daughters than the chill and shadow of joblessness, than the thin security of a political subsidy, or a place on the public payroll of an all-absorbing government."

Herr Hitler Sheds Little Light on Nazi Plans

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

Herr Hitler's sportspast speech last night reaffirmed his promise to the German people that England would be smashed—but he didn't say when.

Mackenzie

At the outset of the war he had "told Goering to prepare for five years," he said, and then cried: "The hour will come when one of us will crack up, and it won't be national socialist Germany."

Still, maybe the fuhrer meant that the hour is at hand. The first of the week they told us in British air quarters that the British air force couldn't survive another fortnight of the German attacks.

Contrary Evidence

The answer to this is that there has been no demonstration of mastery (which means absolute control) but that on the contrary the operations of the Royal Air Force, both defensive and offensive, in recent weeks are a direct challenge to this claim.

Undoubtedly Hitler had mastery at the outset of the war and for long months after that—but he didn't take advantage of it. Now it is fair to say that if the Germans do indeed have mastery, it is potential and rests in power which hasn't yet been brought into play.

Hitler undoubtedly has great strength in reserve, but it's hard to see why, with mastery of the air, he should have so far delayed his final assault when speed has meant so much to his success, especially with bad weather almost in sight.

Something undoubtedly has gone wrong with his program.

However, I think we must accept as a possibility that the Nazi chief may be getting ready for his big fling—a crushing blow on England from the air, and then invasion with troops. British war minister Anthony Eden a couple of days ago warned, "It would be most foolish to suppose that because autumn approaches, the threat of invasion already is passed."

"If they ask, 'why doesn't he come?' My reply is: 'Just be quiet he's coming, all right. One mustn't be so inquisitive.'"

May Want Shield
We have been talking a lot about the bad weather intervening at the end of September to give England a breathing spell.

It strikes me as possible that Hitler's strategy involves taking advantage of the break in the weather. He may be planning to use it as a shield in case his grand coup fails.

We mustn't forget that if and when Hitler tries an invasion of England he will be undertaking one of the most hazardous of military projects. The only way he can achieve it will be first to blast Britain into near insensibility from the air.

This means that when invasion is attempted, Hitler must fling into the air all the big reserve which he may have been holding for this purpose.

But supposing he waits until almost the time of the change of weather for his assault. Either he smashes England quickly and the war is over, or he himself is flung back in heavy defeat. If he encounters a crushing blow, the weather intervenes to save him from being finished off on his own home grounds.

I am not advancing this idea as a probability, but as a possibility that holds water.

Income Distribution Is Hit by Loomis
Racine—(AP)—Laborers and farmers have suffered from "unequal distribution of the national income," Orland S. Loomis, Progressive candidate for governor, declared in a campaign speech here last night.

"The exploitation of both classes of workers has been the source of panic and depression," he said. "Upon the economic welfare of both rests the best assurance of a sound and permanent prosperity."

Loomis said this country still had the blessings of peace and a feeling of security, but that labor could not avoid the necessity of a political inventory of its "so-called friends and its political beneficiaries."

Undoubtedly Hitler had mastery at the outset of the war and for long months after that—but he didn't take advantage of it. Now it is fair to say that if the Germans do indeed have mastery, it is potential and rests in power which hasn't yet been brought into play.

Hitler undoubtedly has great strength in reserve, but it's hard to see why, with mastery of the air, he should have so far delayed his final assault when speed has meant so much to his success, especially with bad weather almost in sight.

Something undoubtedly has gone wrong with his program.

However, I think we must accept as a possibility that the Nazi chief may be getting ready for his big fling—a crushing blow on England from the air, and then invasion with troops. British war minister Anthony Eden a couple of days ago warned, "It would be most foolish to suppose that because autumn approaches, the threat of invasion already is passed."

"If they ask, 'why doesn't he come?' My reply is: 'Just be quiet he's coming, all right. One mustn't be so inquisitive.'"

May Want Shield
We have been talking a lot about the bad weather intervening at the end of September to give England a breathing spell.

It strikes me as possible that Hitler's strategy involves taking advantage of the break in the weather. He may be planning to use it as a shield in case his grand coup fails.

We mustn't forget that if and when Hitler tries an invasion of England he will be undertaking one of the most hazardous of military projects. The only way he can achieve it will be first to blast Britain into near insensibility from the air.

This means that when invasion is attempted, Hitler must fling into the air all the big reserve which he may have been holding for this purpose.

But supposing he waits until almost the time of the change of weather for his assault. Either he smashes England quickly and the war is over, or he himself is flung back in heavy defeat. If he encounters a crushing blow, the weather intervenes to save him from being finished off on his own home grounds.

I am not advancing this idea as a probability, but as a possibility that holds water.

Boettcher

'GRAFT' BROKER—Raymond W. Boettcher, who called himself a "graft broker," testified in Detroit that he handled more than $300,000 in tribute paid by law-breakers to Detroit police and public officials in three years. Boettcher previously was dismissed as police inspector.

each other in the well of the chamber while the galleries looked on.

The fight followed a speech by Sweeney, in which he assailed conscription and accused President Roosevelt of seeking to embroil the United States in war.

In the course of the speech, Sweeney, who is 55, mentioned that the slogan during Woodrow Wilson's 1916 campaign was: "He kept us out of war."

"And the people believed it," he said, "and they returned that individual to the White House."

"Then they were brought to their senses five months later when he put us into war."

Sweeney returned to a seat beside Vincent, 5 years his junior, and abruptly the flare-up occurred. Each representative landed hard blows to the face and kept slugging until colleagues intervened.

One grappled with the stocky Sweeney and rolled over a seat with him before he pinned him down.

Tell About Fight
Sweeney subsequently apologized to the house. Vincent at first repeated his charge of "traitor"—but later withdrew it at the persuasion of friends. Each gave the house his version of the altercation.

Sweeney's account:
"As I resumed my seat, the gentleman with whom I had difficulties called me a traitor. He repeated it again and you know what happened."

Vincent's account:
"I served in the World War. . . To say that my president of that time brought on that war to me was an untruth. The whole statement that the gentleman made here I resented very much."

"When he came down to sit with me, I got up and moved, and I shall continue to move as long as I am a member of the congress of the United States."

"I am not advancing this idea as a probability, but as a possibility that holds water."

War Situation Today

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

Herr Hitler's sportspast speech last night reaffirmed his promise to the German people that England would be smashed—but he didn't say when.

Mackenzie

At the outset of the war he had "told Goering to prepare for five years," he said, and then cried: "The hour will come when one of us will crack up, and it won't be national socialist Germany."

Still, maybe the fuhrer meant that the hour is at hand. The first of the week they told us in British air quarters that the British air force couldn't survive another fortnight of the German attacks.

Contrary Evidence

The answer to this is that there has been no demonstration of mastery (which means absolute control) but that on the contrary the operations of the Royal Air Force, both defensive and offensive, in recent weeks are a direct challenge to this claim.

Undoubtedly Hitler had mastery at the outset of the war and for long months after that—but he didn't take advantage of it. Now it is fair to say that if the Germans do indeed have mastery, it is potential and rests in power which hasn't yet been brought into play.

Tuberculosis Deaths In County Increase Over Previous Year

Six Appleton residents were among the 16 persons from Outagamie county who died from tuberculosis last year, according to a report issued by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association which places the total number of deaths due to tuberculosis during 1939 at 839. Only two Appleton persons died from the disease in 1938.

Other county deaths included seven from rural areas, two from Kaukauna and one from New London. This marks an increase in county tuberculosis deaths over 1938, when there were 11. The annual average number of tuberculosis deaths in Outagamie county over the last 3-year period is 17.3. However, the report states that deaths in Wisconsin have been decreasing steadily each year.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 9 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Commercial street, have temporarily forsaken the comforts of home for a ten day stay in a shack which they have erected on a vacant lot near the Hendricks home. The boys are members of Troop 8, Congregational church, led by Clinton Schmidt. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Freight Car Loadings Show Steady Increase Over 1939 Figures

A general improvement in business conditions is being reflected in continually increasing freight car loadings, according to agents of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, Chicago and North Western and Soo Line railroads.

Increases of from 10 to 30 per cent are reported both for the first eight months of 1940 as compared with the corresponding period of 1939 and for the month of August over the same month of the preceding year. "It is a general and continued gradual improvement that looks like it will continue," Gilbert J. Baker, Soo line agent said. "There has been no decrease of any kind for more than a year."

While the increases correspond to a general improvement in industries in this area, the agents attributed the gain to paper mill supplies especially.

Johnson Hits New Deal Talk Of 'No Issues' in Campaign

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C.—It is the cleverest kind of fourth New Deal electioneering to say there is no issue in this campaign—that Mr. Willkie has endorsed all of Mr. Roosevelt's principal policies, and that the only remaining question is who can deal the New Deal better—the original champagne charlies of the keeno box or some amateur hornet-inner. Part of this play is the president's insistence that he is too busy to talk politics in a political year.

The innocent bystander can only gaze in a sort of woozy wonder at the cool, crass gall, cheek and impudence of this gratuitous affront to what is supposed to pass for the intelligence of the American people.

There is first and foremost the issue of whether in direct defiance of one of the oldest and most respected of American traditions one man can use the taxing and spending and borrowing powers of this republic first to expand those powers out of all recognizable semblance to themselves and then to perpetuate himself as president.

Out of the sole excuse given for that, grows the greatest issue. The excuse is that Mr. Roosevelt must become perpetual president because his great abilities and performance make him the one and only indispensable American in the critical hour. The questions at issue are "what abilities" what performance?" Mr. Roosevelt's principal duties and policies lie in the fields of agriculture, labor, industry, American finances, foreign relations and more recently, national defense. His performance in each field is a heap of complete and utter wreckage.

Billions have been spent on the farm problem. The basic situation is to surplus price and income and expect as to refinanced farm debt is much worse than it was even under Hoover.

Unemployment of labor has not materially declined and while it will do so because of conscription and rearmament, Mr. Roosevelt will certainly want to claim no credit for a threatening war situation.

Federal finances are the worst mess of all. Debt has reached mountainous heights, taxes—mostly on the poor—are unbearably heavy and will increase.

Our foreign relations have been so blundered that, except for Great Britain, we have not a friend on earth and those with Britain are being pushed as rapidly as the New Deal dares into an alliance and participation in an overseas war.

The utter neglect of adequate defense until it was too late to make anything but a hodge-podge slapdash panicky rush at the effort which is at this moment hopelessly bogged down.

The "indispensable man" is also making the greatest issue of all just as fast as, in the face of public opinion, he dares to go. He went most of the distance when he "sold" part of our navy. He is making the awful issue of peace and war. It is the tragic issue of complete adjournment of our democracy for a war dictatorship in which men who have ridden hell-bent for centralized personalized presidential power for almost eight years will realize their wildest dreams.

American Destroyers for Air Base Leases

Mr. Roosevelt's transaction with England whereby 50 American destroyers are turned over in consideration of long time leases for air and naval bases all the way from Newfoundland to British Guiana must be considered in two parts.

First, there is the legal phase. This is generally uninteresting to the public. When arguments involving the construction of statutes take place the public recognizes that a class argument can usually be made on both sides if the design is to attract public attention and support irrespective of the breach of fundamental principles. But a short time ago the attorney general advanced the opinion that the transfer by the president to England or Canada of American so-called "mosquito" boats, swift chasers, was in violation of our laws. Now he finds it legal to transfer destroyers. He may be right. But it may be worthy of interest to read the art of congress and look at the attorney general's reasoning. The law says:

"During a war in which the United States is a neutral nation it shall be unlawful to send out of the jurisdiction of the United States any vessel, built, armed, or equipped as a vessel of war... with any intent or under any agreement, or contract, written or oral, that such vessel shall be delivered to a belligerent nation, or to an agent, officer, or citizen of such nation, or with reasonable cause to believe that the said vessel shall or will be employed in the service of any such belligerent nation after its departure from the jurisdiction of the United States."

This looks like plain language. But the attorney general says the "mosquito" boats could not be delivered and the destroyers could since the language "with any intent" in the law applies to the time of building and not to the time of delivery. Therefore, since the destroyers were not built "with the intent" to deliver them to England it is perfectly proper to do so, and it is unlawful to deliver anything to England which was built "with the intent" of delivering it.

A battery of lawyers at the instance of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies went to work upon the Attorney General and the law as soon as Mr. Jackson had ruled that the "mosquito" boats could not be delivered. They worked effectively. Now the president is given a free hand. He may deliver anything to England he likes. He may give our navy away so long as he can certify that what he transferred was not built "with an intent" to transfer it.

It will appear to many with show of reason that the government at Washington is highbanded, that the president has already practically announced himself as a Bonaparte, that the national legislature is well-nigh impotent and that the discussion and investigation which Mr. Willkie demanded in order to prevent a reckless or impulsive decision secured only the answer from the White House a while ago that no such a deal was even under consideration.

But skill in engineering the matter was not abandoned. The people's reactions were cultivated carefully by the Wallace address to place any critic of the administration right over in the Hitler camp and the fire alarm address of the president on Labor Day.

The attorney general forgot to comment upon our breach of the Hague convention or the fact that under international law, in whose creation we have assisted and consented, we are already practically at war with Germany in the sense that we have committed deeds that are defined as acts of war under our own treaties.

But the transaction must also be viewed in the light of its reasonableness if it be conceded that it is legally consistent with our laws and the treaties to which we are signatory. We would not expect England to transfer Newfoundland, which is a vast territory, to us in order to provide a defensive base. Neither would we expect the transfer of British Guiana, likewise an extensive territory, to furnish the same sort of a base in South America. But in between are numerous islands, most of which are of little value for anything more than the sort of base or outpost we seek for the protection of the western world. We receive nothing but thin leases and nothing whatever is said about the enormous debt that Britain has owed us for over 20 years.

The leases may be rendered useless by Britain at any time she wishes to direct the sovereignty she holds over these islands to that end.

As a piece of bargaining the deal falls short of America's deserts. We do not know why England must always get the best of every trade. It is getting wearisome to see our noble president always giving something away, always surrendering, always retreating, except insofar as the enemies in central Europe are concerned.

The destroyers, while 22 years of age, have been reconditioned and put into excellent shape. Originally they cost 100 million dollars.

But there is something in the transaction worth more to Britain than the original cost of these destroyers. We are on record as taking another huge stride to the battlefield. And it is written that if Britain is to overcome the German armies there must be gathered together a huge army from America for that purpose.

Early could the president have secured a transfer of the sovereignty of the West Indies islands which actually constitute the most strategic positions we need. And we aren't going to get payment of the debt from World War No. 1 anyway.

We think the transaction demonstrates the peril to American interests in the transfer to Mr. Roosevelt of any more authority.

Unreasonable Delays

For just four years now those interested in the wider distribution of milk have been trying to obtain permission to make their Chicago deliveries in paper bottles which have been demonstrated to be just as serviceable and wholesome as glass and much cheaper.

The interminable delays that have been interposed to prevent a final decision may have been occasioned by a number of cobwebs stretched across the march of travel but we have long since passed the point of absurdity when progress and economic stability must stand around upon one leg and then another waiting for the law to decide a question which would have been shot through the courts in Wisconsin in eight to eleven months.

Justice of the sort that is daily dished out or withheld in Chicago is a travesty upon the word.

In New York where paper bottles have been in use the two-quart container filled with milk is ordinarily sold at a saving to the customer of four cents, to say nothing of the convenience. This saving, New York figures show, is immediately reflected in greatly stimulated purchases.

Rights delayed are rights denied.

Senator Tydings Says a Lot

In discussing the matter of conscription Senator Tydings of Maryland said:

"I would rather have it and not need it than need it and not have it."

All of the words employed by the senator are of but one syllable excepting one which is of two. They show how simple language may be created into a tremendous battering ram demolishing the large but crumbly arguments interposed by the opposition.

The senator's statement becomes all the more appropriate when it is considered that very little can be done by way of shaping untrained men into a formidable army short of a year.

This would be the saddest and most ridiculous place on the face of the earth if it decided not to defend itself. And such a decision would result if appropriate preparations are withheld.

To date Senator Tydings with his sixteen-word sentence has put the proposition clearer and better than any other 500 pages of the Congressional Record.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

GULLS

Borne on strong wings the sea gulls fly, at home Whether the lake is calm or lashed with foam; Under them the deep waters, and above The mystery of sky lanes that they love.

Since they know nothing of security, They are sustained by truths withheld from me. I shall take heart and strengthen my soul's faith, Soaring above my fears of pain and death;

Seeing the waves of sorrow surge below; Feeling the winds of God upon me blow.

Opinions of Others

ROADS OF ADVENTURE

Traveling in Great Britain is rapidly taking on aspects of an adventure. With the removal of signposts, it is no longer easy for the motorist to find his way. No longer is the traveler tempted to murmur "impossible" when he is confronted at a Yorkshire crossroads with the injunction, "Jump, 2 miles." Nor does he wince at the sign pointing the way to the Ugly Man and Women's Institute. Even shop signs that indicate the names of places are being removed.

Thus the motorist, pampered too long perhaps by automobile-association route maps, road patrols, and signposts, takes a leap back into the conditions of an exciting past, and often enough does not know where he is going, nor when he has got there. More and more, writes a Londoner to the Monitor, the British motorist is realizing the deep comfort to be got from Stevenson's remark that "To travel hopefully is better than to arrive." For the one is now much easier to do than the other.—Christian Science Monitor.

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—Real test facing the conscription bill in the house isn't the plan to "draft industry." Despite Wendell Willkie's blast, the chamber will approve some form of legislation empowering the government to conscript industry as well as men.

Also the chances are strong that the house will pare down the 21-to-45 age limit to the 21-to-31 range already fixed by the senate. The toughest hurdle against the bill is the same little-noticed one that nearly stopped it in the senate.

This was the amendment sponsored by Senators Hayden of Arizona and Tydings of Maryland, postponing the draft for 60 days during which the army would conduct an intensified recruiting drive. Then, if an insufficient number of men had been obtained, the remainder would be made up by conscription.

Offered in the closing hours of the senate battle, the plan came within a hair's breadth of passage; being defeated only by two votes, 43 to 41, the closest vote on the legislation. Reason for this was the postponement feature of the amendment.

Facing a hard and uncertain election, the senators, even though favoring the draft, are fearful about putting it into operation until after Nov. 3. Army plans do not contemplate setting conscription machinery into motion until around Nov. 15, but the politicians prefer not to take even the remotest chances.

They almost put the 60-day postponement across in the senate, where only one-third of the members are up for election. What will happen in the house, where every congressman faces the polls, remains to be seen.

MINISTER OF MUNITIONS

There is a very human story behind the appointment of Benedict Crowell, who was assistant secretary of war under Woodrow Wilson, to aid Secretary of War Stimson in speeding up national defense orders.

It results from an old friendship between Stimson and Crowell dating back to the post-war days, when Crowell was indicted on charges of misappropriating public money in connection with World War orders. Crowell was in charge of munitions purchases during the war, and when the Harding administration got into power, it put into the Justice Department Harry Daugherty of Teapot Dome fame, who had been an old enemy of Crowell's in Ohio politics.

Shortly thereafter, Crowell was indicted on charges brought by Daugherty's justice department. This roused the indignation of Henry L. Stimson, who had been secretary of war in the Taft administration, a colonel of field artillery in the World War, and knew how easy it was to charge an executive with maladministration of funds. So Stimson, a Republican, went to Crowell, a Democrat, and offered to defend him.

The charges against Crowell were phoney and nothing came of them. But this started a firm friendship which has continued ever since. And when Stimson first was appointed secretary of war by Roosevelt, Crowell came to help him by making a survey of the entire war department situation. At that time Stimson asked him to serve as his assistant secretary, but Crowell, declining, said that if Stimson found he needed him later, he would come to Washington.

Crowell is now president of the Central National bank of Cleveland, but also has been for many years president of the Army Ordnance association, thus has kept closely in touch with the munitions problem.

His job with Stimson is to rush the production of munitions and make sure there is no lost motion between the National Defense commission and the war department.

WALLACE AND NEGRO VOTE

It was no accident that Henry Wallace made his Labor day address before the Afro-American Exposition in Chicago. Inside fact is that Roosevelt politics are counting on Wallace to help swing the Negro vote, which now holds the balance of power in such key cities as New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Chicago. Wallace's influence with colored voters comes from the fact that he once made a speech on racial equality. The first speech was made in a northern city and attracted little attention. Later he was asked to repeat the speech at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama. Friends counseled against it, saying it would be political suicide.

However, he went ahead with the speech, and here is one quotation from it: "Almost all, if not all, the propaganda about superior racial stocks has no basis in scientific fact. There is little scientific evidence to show that one racial stock is superior to another."

The speech attracted little attention in the south, but was widely reported in the Negro press.

Note—in a poll of Iowa farmers, being made by Wallace's Farmer and Iowa Homestead, of which the Democratic vice presidential candidate is editor on leave of absence, Roosevelt, and Willkie are running neck and neck with 34 per cent each and 32 per cent undecided. Commenting on this, Wallace's weekly says:

"So far Roosevelt has only 50 per cent of the farm vote that has made up its mind. That isn't enough." Willkie can hold 50 per cent of the farm vote and have the normal Republican strength in the towns, he can carry Iowa."

BAD BLOWS AGAINST BRITAIN

The most disastrous news that has escaped the British censor recently is the fact that the Bristol arms factory in southwest England has been severely damaged by German bombs. This news has come back to Washington via the diplomatic and military cables.

The Bristol plant is one of the most important munitions factories in England, and apparently it has been virtually put out of business. Coming on top of damage to the Rolls-Royce airplane motor plant, this is devastating information.

Furthermore, the Germans have been causing a lot more damage than gets on the press cables, and on the whole the British situation has worsened considerably in the last few weeks. British morale is still high, in fact better than during the last World War, and British aviators still are putting up an amazing battle, far surpassing the Germans in individual skill and bravery. However, bravery and morale alone will not win a war, and when the output of many factories such as the Bristol arms plant is stopped, it means that the British may have only morale and bravery left.

On the optimistic side, however, Royal Air Force aviators have been wreaking terrific damage on German gasoline plants and Ruhr factories. The damage to German plants is greater proportionately. Only trouble is that the British don't have nearly as many planes as the Germans to perform bombing raids of this kind.

The ratio in British bombing planes a short time ago was 12 Nazi to one British bomber—based upon carrying capacity. It is a little better now but not much.

Releasing Pheasants

Editor Post-Crescent: On July 19, 1940, an item appeared in the Appleton Post-Crescent under a Madison heading, stating that Mr. Catlin had received complaints that the pheasants had been released in Outagamie county, "Too Young to Fly" in 1939.

Mr. Catlin has apparently been misinformed by some "Would-Be Sportsman" who does not appreciate the good work conservation clubs have been doing. As a result our local club has been considerably spotted to say the least. For Mr. Catlin's information, just in case he does not know, birds reared under the State Conservation department's day old chick program, must be released at the age of 8 to 10 weeks. In 1939 our day old chicks were received on June 13th and released on Aug. 16th and 17th, which made them better than 8 weeks old.

If Mr. Catlin wants concrete evidence as to the ability of 8 weeks old birds to fly he will find in a recent issue of the same paper, a picture taken by a Post-Crescent photographer, showing Warden Emil Kramer, members of the club, and employees of the paper, releasing birds of that age.

If Mr. Catlin wants further evidence as to the birds' ability to fly, we would like to have him as one of the party that will release birds that we reared under the 1940 day old chick program, during this coming week. These birds were delivered to our pens on June 26th and are 10 weeks old today (Sept. 4).

Under the 1939 four to five weeks old bird program, we received birds on Aug. 8, 1939, and released them on April 12, 1940. We are very much surprised that a complaint has not been filed that these 10 MONTHS old pheasants were "too young to fly."

In view of the facts given above we feel that Mr. Catlin owes us a published retraction to the effect that the Outagamie Conservation Club, Inc., was not guilty of releasing birds "too young to fly," and in addition apologize in person or by letter to our Club at the next meeting for the misrepresentation given us.

To anyone wanting information we will furnish the true facts on the activities of our club at any time.

In all this swapping business I can only hope that Uncle Sam knows which side his bread is "battered" on. The country is talking about nothing else (except maybe the American league baseball race and that all-star football game), and opinions are being swapped everywhere.

Everybody admits Uncle Sam needs those air and naval bases. But you can still pick a fight in any home by just bringing up the question of whether the president should have done it the dictator way instead of acting just as though we still lived under a democratic form of government.

Of course we really don't, but we hate to be reminded of it. America stands with England and against the Nazi menace. These air bases even now are just "on order" and will take a long time to build. It's probably a good thing, if America is in danger, to get going. But it still strikes most folks like sticking out Uncle Sam's neck a little too far for comfort.

Of course comfort is becoming less and less a staple commodity. The main idea now is spiritual fiber and hard muscles as Mr. Roosevelt said the other day. Remember away back when those things were common?

I hope we can get 'em back without swapping.

I, Without Advice or Consent of the Senate

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — About the only thing upon which Wisconsin's battling numerous candidates for public office this year agree is the unusual apathy of the Wisconsin public toward their speeches and promises.

Although they will all insist that their crowds are as big or better than those drawn by their rivals, they will all at the same time admit that they are disappointed at the public response to their oratory.

An electorate absorbed in the progress of Hitler's ravaging war abroad seemingly hasn't time for such trivial affairs as candidates' speeches on state questions, or the respective attacks by and upon New Deal radicals, Progressive job-hunters and Republican reactionaries. The result is that chagrined candidates are finding their long travels and elaborate speeches wasted in many instances or spent upon microscopic audiences.

NO INTEREST

Present day politicians are realistic enough to recognize, of course, that political campaigning in 1940 is far different than it was in 1900, or even in 1920. A generation ago, say in the time of the senior La Follette, the visit of a leading political personality to the local opera house was an event, and one to which the town responded. Today the leading politicians are able to come more frequently, and moreover, the home town resident by a flip of his dial can listen to speeches of world leaders rather than purely local significance, hear literally blow by blow descriptions of history's greatest war.

Against such competition, the Wisconsin candidates complain, they find it hard to fight.

YET DEEPER

But the electoral apathy goes even deeper. During the summer now ending several of the leading newspaper correspondents in the capital city, men whose job it is to record the movements of Wisconsin politics and who realize that Madison is probably the least likely spot in the state to discern political trends, took trips through the state.

They asked a lot of questions, about Heil, about La Follette, about the following of the Progressive candidates for governor, etc., and came back baffled.

The average person, it must be concluded, knows very little about the Heil administration except the general impression that the governor has relieved a lot of pay-rollers of their salaries and has imposed the cigarette tax. Many persons, it was found, ask "who's running" when asked for their opinion of the probable Progressive nominee against the governor.

STORIES

Better illustrations of the attitude of the public toward purely state questions this year are contained in a couple of stories now making the rounds in political circles in the capital.

It is related that Attorney General John E. Martin, visiting an upstate city on his reelection campaign recently, encountered an old buddy of A.E.F. days. "What are you doing now?" the friend asked the attorney general. At the same time he asked to be remembered to Ted Lewis, former state supreme court justice who died during the Schmedeman administration.

And there is the story told of a prominent Wisconsin politician, this year running for governor, who was introduced as a candidate for the state's highest office to a Wisconsin voter at an up-state rural picnic.

"Of what state?" queried the man as he shook hands.

IRISH MOSS GOOD FOOD

According to McClelland (Jour. Biol. Chem. 102,91) seaweed contains a thousand times as much iodine as any other food.

The diet of the Japanese has included a considerable amount of seaweed for centuries and so it would seem that people who regularly take much more iodine than others get suffer no injurious effects. In Japan where the people get so much iodine in their customary diet cretinism and goitre are almost unknown. In the so-called goitre-belt of the United States, a wide area extending north along the Appalachian mountains to Vermont, thence west thru the Great Lakes region to Montana and Washington, thence south to include most of the Rocky Mountain and Pacific States, altho cretinism is rare, goitre, myxedema and hypothyroidism are common ailments, the latter two conditions frequently escaping recognition and proper treatment.

Without going into the signs and symptoms of myxedema or hypothyroidism in greater detail than is necessary to indicate the physical and mental condition that calls for increased intake of iodine, I give the necessary "Instructions for Taking an Iodine Ration," that is, enough iodine to supply the daily requirement of the body, in a pamphlet under that title, available to any one who asks for it and incloses stamped envelope bearing his address.

Irish moss nutritive, easy to digest, pleasant to taste, soothing to inflamed mucous membrane, formerly much used as a demulcent in bronchial, diarrheal and urinary tract irritations. An emulsion of Irish moss is a soothing lotion for chapped skin and similar irritations. Dried Irish moss may be bought in drugstores.

This recipe for Irish Moss Blanc-Mange or New England sea-moss pudding is given by a woman who has lived for 50 years in Boston and spent many summers at Scituate where they gather the moss. She says she has never seen a person with goitre in that part of the world, but has seen a great deal of it in Idaho.

Irish Moss Blanc-Mange (New England Sea-moss Pudding) One-third cupful dried crumbled or granulated Irish moss, covered with cold water and allowed to soak for 15 minutes. Pour off the water, pick over the moss, add a quart of milk, cook in double boiler for one-half hour—No longer. Add a pinch of salt and strain. Then add two teaspoonfuls vanilla, one-fourth cupful of sugar, strain again, pour into individual molds dipped in cold water. When firm unmold and serve with any fruit and sugar and cream, perhaps sprinkled with nutmeg.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Cellulose

Lecturer stated that because cellulose is not broken down by the dilute acids or enzymes of the alimentary tract of man we get no more than 1 per cent of the nutrients in most vegetables and fruits. (L. L. B.)

Answer—Perhaps you misunderstood, or else the lecturer was a humbug. Of course man gets nearly as much nourishment from potatoes, bananas, apples, beans, peas, etc., as animals do. Perhaps herbivorous animals derive more nourishment from cellulose or fibrous material in vegetables, fruit, grass, foliage, than man can.

moves all of the tonsil but leaves portions in the throat which cause trouble later. (Mrs. F. S. W.)

Answer—The old Spanish method rarely or never removes all of the tonsil either. Your doctor is singularly blind to what is going on in his profession. In competent hands the diathermy method is the method of choice today. If I were the patient I'd want some tonsil tissue left in my throat, if it were at all possible to remove or destroy the infected area yet leave some normal tonsil tissue intact.

Was I Scared?

We have enjoyed and profited by your occasional articles about maternity. You are expecting your first baby soon. Please tell me whether you ever felt scared about the prospect? I don't mean just anxious, as I suppose all novice fathers are at the time, but really scared. (T. C.)

Answer—Boy you said it. More than that, I was in a dreadful doubt about the ability of the doctor to conduct the delivery without getting tangled up in the mess. I had to have the very best doctor available and I was he. But don't worry, son. Send ten cents coin, and enclose stamped envelope bearing your address, and I'll include advice for the expectant father too.

Goat's Milk

Received a pamphlet showing that goat's milk is a far more healthful drink than cow's milk. What do you think? (H. M.)

Answer—Goat's milk is at least as wholesome, nutritious and healthful as cow's milk. If you have your own goat or can buy goat's milk at approximately the cost of cow's milk, it is o. k.

"In a democracy one man should not decide such questions," Maas said. "Our constitution contemplates that negotiations with foreign countries be carried on by the president with the advice and consent of congress."

"The fact that the president has in this instance chosen to ignore congress is not comforting to us who feel that the entire crisis has arisen over our determination to preserve democratic procedure."

Schedule Dates For Dairy Sales Promotion Event

Outagamie County
Businessmen Will be Asked to Cooperate

The Cheesemakers Federation of Outagamie county last night set Oct. 17, 18 and 19 for the county-wide 3-day dairy sales promotional program, according to J. F. Magnus, county agent, who is cooperating with the cheesemakers in setting up the program.

Businessmen from the entire county will be asked to have special dairy displays in their store windows during the three days. Robert Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, who attended the meeting last night, said that Appleton merchants would cooperate with the program "to the fullest extent."

The sale of cheese, milk, butter, ice cream and other dairy products will be stressed during the 3-day program. Magnus today was preparing to send letters to all rural and state graded school teachers in the county, asking them to explain to their pupils the importance and value of dairy products and suggesting that some sort of contest, such as a poem, poster or scrapbook contest, be conducted in the various schools.

Milk Contest
Tentative plans were made for a milk drinking contest in grade and junior high schools whereby students would be asked to drink at least a quart of milk per day during the three weeks preceding the 3-day sales program.

The program is a follow-up of the county's quality milk program which has produced satisfying results, according to Agent Magnus.

John Reynolds of the state department of agriculture attended last night's meeting and will assist in promoting the dairy sales program. He will meet with the retail division of chamber of commerce within the next several weeks to discuss the matter of displays for the 3-day event.

Commission Opens Bids on Building

The water commission yesterday opened bids on the construction of a chemical building for the purification plant and referred them to the engineers, Orblison and Orblison, for tabulation.

The commission was scheduled to meet today to award the contract. Ten bids were received on the general work, ten on an elevator for the building and five for chemical handling equipment.

The chemical house is the second step in the commission's $191,000 modernization program which was started this summer. Work is progressing on the million gallon filtered water reservoir.

Oiling Streets in City in the Future Includes Turn-Over

Explaining a raise of 10 cents per running foot in the cost of oiling city streets, Alderman J. J. Franke, chairman of the street and bridge committee, said today the new charge includes a turn-over job with a seal coat of tar or oil.

The old charge of 10 cents per foot was increased to 20 cents at last night's council meeting. The old charge was for oil only and did not include any extra work on the street, Alderman Franke said. In the future, where streets need improving, the surface will be turned over and rolled, graveled where necessary and oiled, he stated.

Sees German Attack on U. S.

raids totalled 1,075 killed and slightly more than that number wounded.

Turning to Balkan and European developments, Churchill said "no one can say how far Herr Hitler's empire will extend before this war is over. But I have no doubt it will pass away swiftly—perhaps more swiftly than did Napoleon's army, although of course without any of its glitter or glory."

"We are going to be a good deal stronger next year than we are now, although we are quite strong enough for the immediate work in hand."

He said Germany's need "to obtain a decision is very great" and warned the house that Germany should be able to "magnify and multiply" her attacks during this month.

He spoke of August as a "real fighting month."

"The Germans have made a very substantial and important effort to gain the mastery and they have certainly put forth a larger proportion of their total air strength than we have found it necessary up to the present to employ against them. Their attempts to dominate the Royal Air Force and our AA (anti-aircraft) defenses by daily attacks have proved very costly to them," he said.

He disclosed that Britain had "almost doubled" the strength of the fleet in the eastern Mediterranean by the addition of "some of our most powerful vessels" and that although the movements were known to the Italians "we were unmolested."

It Is Said ---

That Supervisor John Vandeyacht, Little Chute, member of the courthouse building committee today was being asked whether he was thinking about plans for a swimming pool in the new courthouse following an involuntary swim he took yesterday in Lake Poygan. Members of the building committee, following a meeting yesterday afternoon, enjoyed a steak supper at the Bradford cottage. As they prepared to return, Vandeyacht got into a rowboat and sat on a "seat that wasn't there." For a second or two following a big splash, only the topside of a straw hat bobbed upon the water, then up came the spluttering supervisor, none the worse for his swim.

That an inquiry received by Kenneth Corbett, chamber of commerce secretary, from a former resident of Appleton now living in California, in regard to information on one of the largest cheeses ever made, resulted in research producing the following facts: The cheese, made in Appleton in June of 1919 by N. Simon Cheese company, Inc., was 8 feet high, 10 1/2 feet across and weighed 31,964 pounds. Forty-nine cheesemakers from this vicinity helped in its production.

Rep. Schafer, Wisconsin, Would Conscript Congressmen First

Washington —(AP)—Rep. Schafer (R-Wis.) told the house last night that he would offer an amendment to the Burke-Wadsworth bill providing for the conscription of congressmen in the first draft.

"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," he shouted.

And in case he failed to get a roll-call vote on his proposal which would put the members on record, he said arrangements would be made for motion pictures to be taken of a teller vote (in which the members walk up the aisle past tellers who count them for or against an amendment).

House rules prohibit cameras in the gallery, however, without permission of the speaker.

Representative Johns (R-Wis.), speaking against compulsory military training legislation, said "it may be that the very life of democracy is at stake if congress passes this bill."

"This is no time for leaders in America to lose their heads. Let us try out voluntary enlistment. We might still have some patriotic people in the United States the president does not know about."

Johns said he had an "open mind" on the bill until he heard the president's message notifying congress of the trade of 50 destroyers to Great Britain for naval and plane bases.

"When I heard that message I knew it meant war," he said. "I am against war and for that reason I am against this bill."

"It seems to me it is about time the American people awakened to what is going on in this country. This act on the part of the president ought to cause them to sit up and take notice."

Johns said President Roosevelt's action in transferring the destroyers may result in the house rejecting proposed compulsory training legislation.

"In my opinion it is going to have a decided effect on the conscription bill," he declared. "And the action of the president may be a good thing because it probably will defeat the bill."

Johns contended there was "no question but the ship transfer is an act of war."

"It violates both international law and our neutrality act signed by the president," he said.

in a naval base-destroyer trade with the United States is believed by observers to have 200 or more available for use.)

The high command's communique said "numerous fires" were started at Britain's ports, air bases and industrial centers.

Good weather, the first reported in weeks, permitted numerous German battle planes to resume the attack this morning, it was reported, with Biggin Hill and Kenley, London suburban airports, as the objectives.

Eighteen civilians were killed by a British bomb in a northern German town last night, the high command announced, and two men were killed in a raid on the Berlin area.

London —(AP)—Heavy German air waves, coming from many directions and aimed at widely spaced objectives, penetrated today to the outskirts of London with bombs, and rained explosives on another town in northwest England.

The house of commons, called by advance notice to hear Prime Minister Winston Churchill's second war report, was forced to suspend its session for about 45 minutes today when a wave of German war planes made a second lightning thrust toward the capital.

The air ministry said preliminary reports indicated no great harm was done in London.

Several casualties resulted from the bomb hits on a hospital. One Messerschmidt fighter crashed in a thickly populated southern area during violent air fights over the Thames estuary.

Hoosiers May Leave Indiana But They are Still Hoosiers

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—To understand the Hoosierism of Wendell Willkie or any other Hoosier you have to rub out all preconceived notions and start over. Hoosiers are an entirely distinct breed of cats, and Hoosierism is comparable to a harmless way, to the Germanism of the chosen people of the master race. They migrate freely, far and wide, few of them ever go back to Indiana except to strut their city clothes in which they still look like Hoosiers, and they guard their racial purity as it were, by avoiding marriage with the citizens of other states. A buck Hoosier who leaves Indiana may arch his neck and make passes at the local girls, but when it comes time for him to mate he goes back to Gosport or Union City or wherever and pairs off with some little number whose books he used to carry to school. They are dead against race defilement.

A Hoosier has Hoosier written all over him, but if other signs fail you can always tell him by the way he ties his necktie. The most expensive tie in the world looks like a two-bit necktie on a Hoosier. The reason is that they never can learn how to tie a four-in-hand. They get the clerk to knot it for them in the store, and after that they just slip the knot up and down the left side. Their ties are the damndest looking things after about three wearings, and, inasmuch as they keep on wearing the same tie until the stuffing breaks through the knot, you can't miss if you look for this identification mark. It is like the stripes on a Chipmunk.

They may take out citizenship, so to speak, in other states and vote in local elections as Wilkie has done in New York, but again like the Hoosier, they never become assimilated or naturalized. There are some exceptions, of course, but they are regarded as renegades. The race-true Hoosier usually sends his young back to Indiana to be educated and to look over the current Hoosier crop for Hoosier mates. After they are educated in Bloomington, Lafayette or Greencastle they return to the homes of their parents, and even though they never see Indiana again except from the window of a train or plane they remain Hoosiers always. The parents maintain the Hoosier traditions and culture in their homes, and any Sunday gathering in such a home is sure to be predominantly Hoosier, although they are hospitable people and live on very friendly terms with the neighbors. They just don't inter-marry with the breeds of the communities in which they make their living or fortunes, and they always have a feeling that some day they are going back to Indiana, although, as I say, few of them ever do.

Hoosierism Is Something In the Blood and Bone
No other American breed clings so to its culture and traditions as tenaciously as the Hoosier. The Hoosiers have their racial peculiarities, but they are mostly affectionate, put out to impress the people of other regions in which they find themselves. To hear them tell it, they are all fox-hunting Virginians and descendants of Lees and Talliaferros, but if you observe the Hoosier on his own home grounds you find him pretty average. After all they would never get anything done at home if all resident Virginians spent as much time and mental effort being consciously and picture-quely Virginian as their outsiders do. For instance, there is nobody quite so Irish as a professional New York Irishman, but when one of that type goes to Ireland and starts telling them how Irish he is and saying "Wurra, Wurra," and "bad cess to yez" the natives think he is nuts.

But Hoosierism is not affection at all. It is something in the blood and bone and spirit of the breed. They speak of people as "folks," and they never remain strangers long anywhere because a Hoosier in a hotel lobby or on a train will speak right up to the next man, calling him "brother," probably, and in five minutes will know all about his family, his business and what he thinks of the war and the election. In five minutes more he will have a crowd around him singing "The Banks of the Wabash. If we ever do get into a war the Hoosiers will make marvelous spies because of this disarming, although, as I said, it is hard to disguise them.

So Mr. Willkie's return to Indiana was entirely natural. You don't de-Hoosierize a Hoosier by setting him down in Wall Street. More likely he will Hoosierize the street.

WATCH FOR OUR SPOON SPECIAL NEXT WEEK

THE WAY THEY LOOKED TO THE CROWD—Six of the groups that appeared in the Post-Crescent Barber Shop Quartet tournament last night at Pierce park are shown in action. At the upper left (reading from the left) are Mark Catlin, Jr., Jerome Biselx, Joseph Schermitzler, Byron and Les Biselx. Catlin, Schermitzler, and Les Biselx are from Appleton, the other two Biselx brothers from Kaukauna. The next picture in the top row shows the Clintonville quartet at work. Reading from the left are Ronald Fillnow, Harold Mitchell, Charles Mack, and George Hafeman. The four Buesing brothers of Appleton occupy the third picture at the top. They are (reading from the left) Bud, Ralph, Kenneth, and Warren. In the second row, the picture of the left has an Appleton quartet, composed of Leonard Krueger, Gordon Heule, Delmont Bradford, and Meyer Gabriel hard at it. In the next picture, (from left to right) the singers are Thomas Potter, Bud Huesemann, George Schneider, and Rudy Risse. The trio is made up of Bud Stach, Orme Stach, and Wallace Roblee. In the lower pictures, you see Marty Van Rooy (left) and Bob Connelly doing a number. Van Rooy was community singing leader and Connelly master of ceremonies. The blackboard as the judges left it is presented for your study. It does look like the remains of a lecture on higher metaphysics, and the judges couldn't figure it out any better than you can. Photographs of the two other quartets were unsatisfactory for printing. (Post-Crescent Photos.)

Peeters and three comrades, Casey Hanegraaf, Nick Vander Pass, and Clarence Peeters, to lead off with "Stars of A Summer Night" and follow up with two more.

Appleton produced Thomas Potter, Bud Huesemann, Rudy Risse, and George Schneider, who combined comic dress and real old-fashioned barber shop song effects to get solid rounds of applause.

In addition to the singing, there were two specialty acts. Dickie Mauthe, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mauthe, Kimberly, did a trick at tap-dancing and baton-twirling and the crowd brought him back for another workout. Three clever acrobatic dancers from the Beverly Breinig School of The Dance gave the program added variety and enjoyment. The girls were Joan Vermeern of Kimberly and Mabel and Ruby Loose of Appleton.

The crowd at the quartet tournament demonstrated last night that it not only liked to listen to harmony but was ready and willing to do a bit of singing of its own. Marty Van Rooy, who led the community singing, found eager cooperation when he stood up and asked the crowd to join in. It can be said, certainly, that Appleton never before witnessed such a big chorus—thousands of people and most of them lending their voices to such familiar melodies as "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" and "My Wild Irish Rose." Yes, the community singing goes down as one of the most important accomplishments of the tournament.

Connelly and Van Rooy didn't limit their activities to handling the quartets and leading the crowd in song. They got together for a number that was well done and well received.

The judges had their innings, too. The tournament was non-competitive, but to give the crowd some fun, five judges occupied the "waiting chairs" in the mock barber shop on the stage. They had a blackboard at their disposal, and after each quartet finished singing, they would leap to their feet and write their impressions. These impressions, as can be seen by the picture on page 14, varied from queer-looking formulas and screwy drawings to a plain, outright "Boo." Then, after it was all over, Elmer Honkamp, one of the judges, said that the court was unable to make up its mind on the quartets, that they were all excellent, and that for outstanding singing, the crowd had walked away with the honors.

The Judges

In addition to Honkamp, the judges were George A. Schmidt, Judge Fred V. Heinemann, George H. Schmidt, and County Clerk John Hantschel.

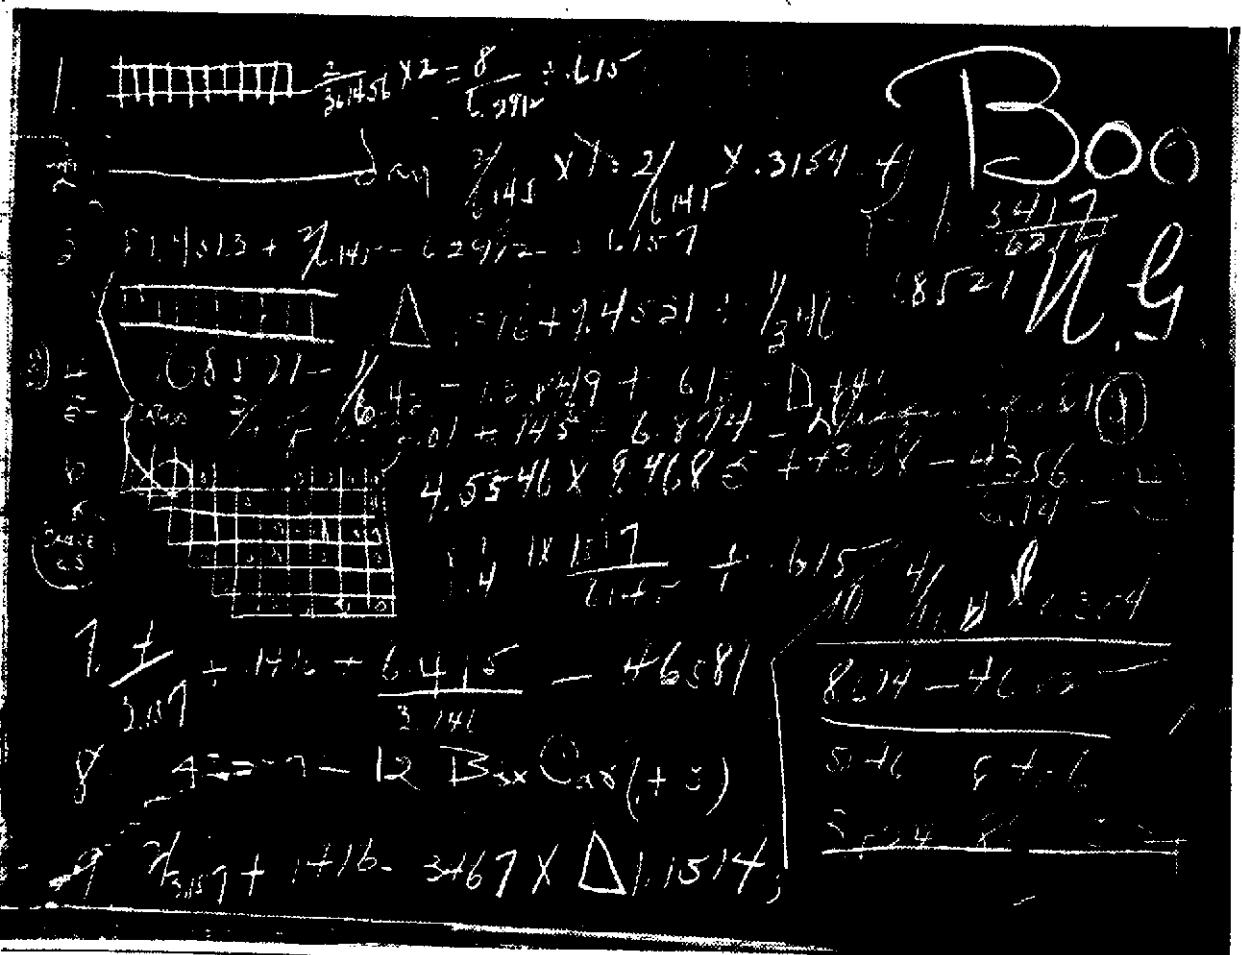

Pierce park was alive with people last night. They used up every available seating place, swung out wide on both sides of the bleachers and benches, and extended far back of the bleachers. Cars were allowed to park within the grounds, but there were so many that streets for blocks around were jammed with machines.

As far as the weather was concerned, the tournament was perfectly timed. August's cold, rainy days have given way to ideal September weather. Last evening was mild, and the bugs were not so plentiful as to be downright annoying. They were soon forgotten in the pleasant measures of harmony that emanated from the pavilion stage.

Harold Jerke and his park board crew turned in an excellent job of preparing the park for the tournament and the tremendous crowd left them plenty to do afterward. The Guenther Sound company's amplifying equipment was used for the quartet singing.

C. A. Beinaud, proprietor of the Beinaud Music Store, 304 N. Appleton street, has announced that any quartets participating in the tournament that have not had recordings made at his store still have the opportunity. Each quartet may record two numbers free of charge.

Quartets Sing Before 10,000

There was a "mixed" quartet from Appleton, with Rudy Risse and Appleton, with Rudy Risse (the lady) fit to kill. There were four lads from Kimberly who rapped out "Old MacDonald" with a lot of zest. There was a nifty outfit from Clintonville, four young fellows attired in barbers' aprons, that the crowd liked. There was — well, let's go over the whole thing.

Harvey Koletzke and his "Nut Band" started things off with some swift-moving old-time music. The program was delayed a bit, although only a few minutes, because the quartets figured they wouldn't have any trouble finding a parking space and then ran into plenty of trouble. A couple groups nearly got lost in the crowd and there was a good deal of scurrying around to get the boys together back-stage, but it was accomplished without any great delay.

After an introductory announcement, Bob Connelly, the master of ceremonies, took over and handled the show the rest of the night. The first quartet to appear was a classy Appleton outfit composed of Leonard Krueger, Meyer Gabriel, Delmont Bradford, and Gordon Heule, the fellows wearing bar aprons and painted mustaches. And before the evening was over there were eight more groups.

There was a quintet composed of Mark Catlin, Jr., Joseph Schermitzler, and Les Biselx of Appleton, Jerome and Byron Biselx of Kaukauna. After they had finished with two numbers, the three Biselx brothers did a neat trio piece.

From Kimberly came Ambrose Couillard, John Mauthe, Jack Coates, and Paul Rooyakker to strike up three good numbers. The Clintonville quartet of Ronald Fillnow, Harold Mitchell, Charles Mack and George Hafeman was called back by the crowd for extra duty.

Buesing Brothers
It was strictly a family affair when the four Buesing brothers of Appleton stepped to the mike and turned in a likable rendition of the familiar "pass the pipe, pass the bowl" ditty, plus two other numbers. Bud, Kenneth, Warren, and Ralph Buesing were the four singers. There was a trio, in fancy "Gay Nineties" apparel, made up of Bud and Orme Stach and Wallace Roblee, that took the crowd's fancy. From Little Chute came Stub

President Has Violated Law, Lawrence Says

Statute Interpretation By Attorney General Was Twisted, Evasive

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The attorney general of the United States is required under the constitution to give legal opinions to the president and not political or evasive interpretations, of the statutes. Entirely apart from the question of whether it was or was not desirable to let Britain have America's naval destroyers in exchange for air bases, the fact remains that the president of the United States on the advice of the attorney general plainly violated the statutes of the congress.

While there have been many instances in which opinions have differed on the way a law could or could not be construed, the language of the statute which forbids the president to do what he did in transferring naval destroyers to Britain is so plain that anybody who can read simple words can perceive the way the attorney general twisted the words to suit his objective. Here is the language of the statute of 1917 which is still in full legal effect:

"During a war in which the United States is a neutral nation, it shall be unlawful to send out of the jurisdiction of the United States any vessel, built, armed, or equipped as a vessel of war, or converted from a private vessel into a vessel of war with any intent or under any agreement or contract, written or oral, that such a vessel shall be delivered to a belligerent nation, or to an agent, officer, or citizen of such a nation, or with reasonable cause to believe that the said vessel shall or will be employed in the service of any such belligerent nation after its departure from the jurisdiction of the United States."

Can Twist Words Neither the president nor the attorney general has any constitutional power to suspend the laws of congress. But an attorney general can, if he wishes to take the risk, twist the words of the law so that they do not in his opinion cover the facts of the case. This is how the attorney general twisted the words of the law. He writes to the president:

"This will not be true, however, with respect to the over-age destroyers, since they were clearly not built, armed, or equipped with any such intent or with reasonable cause to believe that they would ever enter the service of a belligerent."

The attorney general insists that the law means that it is merely unlawful to send out of the jurisdiction of the United States only vessels that were originally "built, armed or equipped" with the intent or with reasonable cause to believe they would some day enter the service of a belligerent.

But the placing of the commas and the plain meaning of the language reveals that congress said flatly it was unlawful to end out of jurisdiction of the United States any vessel of war "under any agreement or contract" whatsoever "that such vessel shall be delivered to a belligerent nation."

Congress served notice last June that it did not want any war materials even when owned by the United States in whole or in part to be "exchanged, sold or otherwise disposed of in any manner whatsoever" unless the chief of naval operations certified that it was not needed for national defense. But this has not ing at all to do with the propriety of selling or disposing of any vessel of war wholly owned by the United States and given over by the government of the United States to another government. The law of last June was intended primarily to prevent transfers of war material still in private hands and contracted for. Since the desire of congress as expressed last June was so plain, it cannot be contended that the statute of January 1917 referred to above was overlooked or forgotten this year. The 1940 section of the law was a statute supplemental to and not in substitution of what was put on the law books in 1917.

International Law

The attorney general endeavors in his letter to the president to argue that international law sanctions what has just been done, but he quotes from experts and authorities who plainly showed they were discussing the disposition of private and not governmental property by a neutral government in time of war.

Congress would have authorized the transfer of old destroyers for air bases if the president had asked for it. Congress would ratify the action tomorrow if requested. Otherwise a most regrettable precedent may be established, namely, that a president of the United States on the advice of a plainly mistaken opinion of his attorney general will have left in the record a violation of the laws of the United States. Future presidents will not be inclined to use it as a precedent because it is so painfully weak in its legal argument, but Mr. Roosevelt will not wish his action to go down in history as unratified by congress, especially since reference is being made to the Louisiana purchase.

Heavy Rains Affect Purity Of Well Water

State Finds Third Of School Supplies Unsafe for Drinking

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Rural residents and school officials in the state, and particularly in the eastern limestone area which includes Outagamie county and vicinity, were warned today of the poisoning of well water and its dangers.

Heavy, late-summer rainfall has endangered thousands of private well water supplies in Wisconsin because of imperfect well sealing.

That step was consummated first, but it was submitted to congress afterwards for ratification and had the money not been appropriated, the deal would not have gone through.

Today congress has no voice in the transaction because it is completed and the destroyers are on their way to Europe. The only purpose that ratification could serve would be to erase from the records of the United States a violation of the statutes by the president of the United States—an offense which, were the times different and the objective not so much desired by an overwhelming body of public opinion, would constitute a basis for impeachment proceedings under the constitution.

at the surface, state health authorities advised, as they reported on results of laboratory tests of water from schools wells just finished.

Made annually at this period, the tests this year show that about one third of the school wells are producing water "unsafe for human consumption," the board of health statement announced.

Cities Requirements

L. F. Warrick, state sanitary engineer, cited the following mechanical requirements of the state well construction code which are commonly lacking in older wells:

Complete protection against surface pollution.

Proper pump installation.

Adequate casing surrounding the water pipe.

The state expert said that an unsafe well endanger not only those who use it but may be the means of introducing surface pollution to the underground supply which serves neighboring wells.

Test Water Frequently

"Wells in the limestone area of eastern Wisconsin are particularly susceptible to pollution because of geological faults which may give polluted surface water access to the underlying supply, and well owners of this region should have their private supplies tested frequently through free facilities of the state laboratory of hygiene."

Warrick cautioned property owners who plan to install private wells that the state code requires that the starting bore of a well drilled into limestone or granite formations shall be not less than six inches in diameter, which permits repair measures should they be required later.

State Juvenile Delinquency Will be Studied in Survey

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—All community social agencies in the 71 counties will be asked to cooperate in the survey of juvenile delinquency just begun by the state department of public welfare, officials said today.

Juvenile courts, child welfare authorities, public assistance offices, probation and parole officers, schools, police, private agencies and institutions, and local government officials will be asked to aid in collecting the data, which the state department may use to propose to the legislature means of improving

An advisory committee consists of A. W. Bayley, George M. Keith, B. O. Odegard, A. F. Ruth, G. E. Seaman, B. G. Wood and Elizabeth Yerxa, all officials of the department of public welfare.

The survey will include an intensive examination of all data relating to the admissions to five state penal institutions over the last five year period, offenders received at various private institutions during the same period, probationers under the age of 21 years during the period from 1935 to the present, and parolees under 21 years during the same period.

Not only the extent of delinquency, but also the facilities and resources for the treatment and prevention of delinquency in each county will be studied.

Forecast End of Term During Current Month

Washington—(AP)—Speaker Bankhead said Wednesday congress should finish its work between Sept. 15 and Oct. 1. Majority Leader Barkley of the senate forecast the legislators would go home around Sept. 20.

The congressional leaders canvassed the legislative state with President Roosevelt, and Bankhead said that as soon as it was cleared up he favored a final adjournment of this session "but I don't know whether we have the votes for that."

An alternative might be to take a long recess.

Tigers Rear Up and Claw Cleveland, 7-2

Regain Second Place as Yanks Bow to Nats

BY JUDSON BAILEY

The Detroit Tigers, creaking with old age at nearly every joint, have turned the American league pennant scramble inside out again. They crushed the Cleveland Indians, 7-2, yesterday with almost unbelievable ferocity while the Washington Senators pounced upon the New York Yankees, 6-5. Between the two upheavals the whole championship outlook was covered with confusion.

The Tigers had their backs to the wall, all right, and they didn't make any child's play of the job they had to do. They lined-up just about the oldest, most experienced campaigners Manager Del Baker could get his hands on—Schoolboy Rowe, Charley Gehringer, Earl Averill, Dick Bartell, Bruce Campbell and the rest—and let out a roar that scared the Clevelanders right out of their cribs.

They made 11 hits, including three home runs, off Bob Feller in seven innings and had the youngster so befuddled he literally didn't know which way to turn. Bartell stole second once while the Iowa speedster was going through his complicated windup, and Bob couldn't get settled down enough to throw to first when Campbell hit a bouncer at him.

Feller to Get Rest

After the game, Manager Oscar Vitt announced Feller would be given until Tuesday to recover, and that his ace had been "working too much." The Indians also lost slugger Hal Trosky indefinitely because of a leg injury he suffered by tripping over third base. He hit a homer and a single and scored both Cleveland's runs. In fact, he was almost the only Trosky encountered in scattering seven hits for his thirteenth victory against three defeats.

Chalenger being in four of Detroit's runs with a homer and a double, and Hank Greenberg and Campbell also hit circuit drives. The victory lifted the Tigers back into second place, three games back of the Tribe.

The Yankees were victims of lefty Joe Kraskauskas, who hadn't won a game all season until yesterday. He was in frequent trouble, but tight in the pinches, and twice set down the champs without a score after they had loaded the bases.

The Boston Red Sox hovered close to pennant contenders by sweeping two extra-inning games from the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-5 and 5-4. In the first, Joe Cronin singled with the bases loaded. In the second, Tom Carey performed the same service. Cronin and Jim Fox also had home runs in the opener.

Browns Whip Cub Sox
The St. Louis Browns continued to make trouble by whipping the Chicago White Sox, 4-1, with Bob Harris scattering eight hits. In the National league, the champion Cincinnati Reds copped their 33rd one-run victory with a 3-2, 11-inning verdict over the Pittsburgh Pirates in a night game. The contest was a scoreless struggle between Bucky Walters and Max Butcher for 10 innings. Then, in the eleventh, the Pirates made two runs, and the Reds duplicated. Finally, in the twelfth, the always reliable Bill Werber singled home a run that meant the ball game. Joe Beggs made his fifth relief appearance in five days and got credit for his third victory over the same span.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals maintained their margins behind the leaders by winning night encounters. Luke Hamlin pitched the Dodgers to a 3-0 shutout over the last-place Phillies, keeping seven safeties well spaced. Max Lanier performed the mound chore for the Cardinals, holding the Chicago Cubs scoreless for seven innings, but getting help from Clyde Shoun in the ninth before winning, 4-2.

One of the season's finest pitching duels was rendered by Dick Erickson of the Boston Bees and Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants as the Bees scored a 2-0 shutout. The only runs of the game came on a homer by Eddie Miller in the seventh inning. Erickson allowed five hits, only one in the first seven innings during which he faced just 22 batters. Hubbell gave six hits in the eight innings he worked.

Nap Lajoie Observes His 65th Birthday
Cleveland—(AP)—Napoleon (Larry) Lajoie, known in baseball as the greatest second baseman of all time, passed his 65th birthday today at his suburban home—and he hasn't seen the Cleveland Indians this summer.

"I haven't been at all well," he said. "The doc says it is some sort of gland trouble. I haven't been to see a ball game this summer. Just haven't felt like it."

Lajoie was manager of the Cleveland team from 1904 to 1908. "It looks as if Cleveland's time had come again," he said of the current American league race. "Of course, they have to get the breaks. They have to be good ball players. But it takes more than that to win the flag."

Eagles, Bears Will Meet in Exhibition Tilt at Philadelphia

Philadelphia—(AP)—Two of professional football's greatest aerial artists clash tonight as the Philadelphia Eagles and Chicago Bears pry the lid off a brand new foot ball season in an exhibition game.

Matching wits and tosses—will be tiny Davey O'Brien, of the Eagles, and Chicago's Sid Luckman, whose strong arm completed many a pass for Columbia. O'Brien may get the help of a former teammate at Texas Christian for Don Looney, who joined Philadelphia this year, is a top replacement at end.

Owner-Coach Bert Bell will use at least three new Eagles for the opening kickoff.

Russ Thompson, giant Nebraska and Dick Bassi, formerly of Santa Clara, will start against their former Bear teammates at tackle and guard, respectively Ray George, erstwhile Southern Californian who played with Detroit last year, will start at the other tackle.

Remainder of the starting lineup will be made up of Eagle veterans with O'Brien, Franny Murray, Dick Riffe and Chuck Newton comprising the starting backfield.

To oppose them George Halas of the Bears is expected to name Luckman, Bill Osmanski, Ray Nolte, and Rookie George McAfee, former Duke star.

SHORE LUNCHEONS PROVIDE SPORT
By Ozark Ripley
Eating, always one of the pleasures of life, comes to the front more than ever when we take to the out of doors where the invigorating fresh air and exercise whet our appetite. A shore lunch, particularly, is an event to which we look forward on a day when we are fishing a lake or stream in boat or canoe.

To us this means such pleasant little tasks as selecting a suitable location, gathering a few small sticks of dry, hard wood to build a small but hot cooking fire, the boiling of coffee, and the steaming and frying of our fresh-caught fish.

Worries Are Forgotten
Though fried fish is our main grub item, we like it supplemented with buttered bread, and either fried potatoes or a small can of beans. A few pickles, a jam sandwich, and a piece of fruit round out the meal.

After such a satisfying feed, we take a smoke and then stretch out with our back to the good earth, look up through the trees, and watch the white clouds idle along through the blue sky. We forget our worries, wonder why such luxury cannot be ours every day, and then, lulled by the gentle rustling of leaves, doze off for a 'lazy-man's nap."

LAST NIGHT'S SCORE
Two Rivers 2, Clintonville 1.

Clintonville—For the third time this season the Clintonville Truckers and the Two Rivers Polar Bears have played extra inning ball games and last night, for the third time, also, the Polar Bears won. The score was 2 to 1 in 10 innings.

Lefty Fortin toed the mound for Two Rivers and gave up only two hits in ten frames. Manager Sid Felts of the Truckers pitched masterful ball striking out 15 men but his teammates' weakness at the plate was the deciding factor.

Two Rivers, in scoring its two runs, collected seven hits on coming in the tenth off the bat of Frosty Ferzacca who formerly played with Clintonville. The Truckers, while they were limited to two hits were slamming the ball hard and far but always into the waiting hands of some Two Rivers outfielder.

In the sixth frame, Two Rivers chalked up its first run of the contest with Ferzacca leading the way with a double. After the next two batters were retired, an attempt was made to catch Ferzacca off second but the ball got away and Frosty went to third. Another double by Morgan Busch scored Ferzacca.

The Truckers tied the game up in the seventh after two men were out. Eddie Flanagan drew a walk and scored when Bud Borchardt, recently of the Appleton Paper-makers, lured a double to left field. Clintonville was hitless until the sixth when Gene Volkman teed off with a single. The double by Borchardt was the only other hit Fortin gave up.

The Polar Bears salted the game away in the tenth. Rollie Meyer, the first man up, grounded out to Borchardt at short. The first time either shortstop John Posewitz followed with a hard hit ball to Borchardt was safe at first on an error. Ferzacca advanced Posewitz to second with a single and Stan Smogoleski was walked filling the bases. Hockey Schultz, regarded as the most dangerous man in the league, hit a long fly to center field and Murray Meyer made a sensational running catch but Posewitz crossed the counting station with the winning run.

Atlas Mill still is in the running for the second round title but will have to play several postponed games which will be scheduled at a meeting of league officials at 7:30 this evening.

Rookie Pitcher Got His Practice On Street Lights

Oklahoma City—(AP)—For a country kid who didn't care for baseball in the first place, Dewey Adkins has done mighty well. He has just completed, in one year, a rise from the sandlots to the major leagues.

The Oklahoma City Indians sold the 21-year-old, 200-pound rookie pitcher—leader of all Texas league hurlers—to the Cleveland Indians, to report at the close of the season.

And for once Adkins, who aspired to a filling station management and figured baseball didn't offer much of a future—was happy.

"When I was a kid, I didn't care for baseball," Adkins said. "I liked to play with the rocks he used to chuck at street lights in the old home town, Wilsonton, Neb."

"That kid's got a future," Adkins' dad remarked one night after Dewey had virtually darkened the town. He called Dewey in and said: "Son, you've cost me $25 replacing street lights and it's time you paid me back. There's a ball game here tonight and you're gonna pitch."

"I've got a date," Dewey objected. "You'll pitch or get out," his father stormed. Dewey called up his date (she's Mrs. Adkins now) and asked her advice. "Pitch," she said. "I'll go with you."

Adkins set a shutout, striking out 18 men.

Menasha—Outstanding outboard motorboat races, including state champions from Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and other midwestern states have entered the outboard motorboat races scheduled for 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Fox river opposite Jefferson park.

Entries have been received from Jackie Maypole, national class B champion for 4 years and winner of the Albany-New York marathon; Edwin Pabst, Milwaukee, Class M record holder; Joe Micheline, Evanston, two time winner of the Governor Heli trophy; Bob Guttmann, Manitowish, 1938 class F champion; and Harry Vogts, Madison, winner of the Wellman Memorial trophy and the Governor LaFollette trophy as well as class F champion in 1938.

Negro Driver Enters
Alfred Reinke, Milwaukee, who won the International Boundary marathon against Gar Wood, Jr., and all the other big race drivers of Michigan and Canada, also has entered. He is the only Negro racing in the United States and wears a brilliant red and yellow satin outfit. He defeated the biggest field of hydroplane and runabout racers in the United States in the 75 mile marathon at Detroit and received $150 in cash and a $500 gold cup presented by Gar Wood, Sr. He will bring the boat which won the marathon and a new Bluebird job here. Dick Hansen, Brighton beach, Menasha, services his motors.

Other drivers entered include George Kuhn, class C champion in 1936 and 1937; Pete Seyl, Chicago, the only one-legged racer in the game; Mrs. Pete Seyl, who races in the midwest class, and Dick Hansen, Menasha, state champion in class B.

The course will have three buoys at one end and one buoy at the other. On the three-buoy turn the boats can take it wide open but on the other they will have to slow up slightly. With speeds between 60 and 70 miles an hour there probably will be numerous spills.

Harold Murphy, Milwaukee, starter of the races, inspected the course last week and said that there is only one place in the state better for races than here. That is Madison where they have a small inland lake.

Amateurs and professionals will race together for the awards in classes A, B, C, and F in which there will be two heats to each race. Professionals will receive cash prizes and the amateurs will receive merchandise or trophies. Amateur drivers are marked by odd numbers on their boats while the even numbered boats are driven by professionals.

Boats Marked
Various letters painted on the boats indicate the states from which the drivers come. Wisconsin boats are marked by a "W." Other marks include Michigan "M," Minnesota "G," Illinois "V," Iowa "X," and Indiana "H."

The motors are classified according to cubic inches of piston displacement. The midwests are the smallest and have under 75 cubic inches. Class A range up to 14 inches while the B boats include those up to 20 cubic inches. Class C boats, are powered by motors of 30 to 40 cubic inches while the class F boats, the biggest ones, have from 50 to 60 cubic inches of piston displacement.

In 1939 Higgins of Racine won $100 for sustaining a speed of 30 miles an hour with a class F motor. Now a motor of that size attains speeds of 70 miles an hour. They turn at nearly 8,000 revolutions per minute while an airplane goes 3,000 and an automobile much less. Even the midwest boats maintain speeds of 40 miles an hour now.

San Francisco—(AP)—Baseball players have long memories. Umpire George Hildebrand went before Judge Hugh Smith on a little matter of overtime parking. The judge is a former catcher.

"George, my friend, I've been waiting a long time for this," smiled his honor sweetly. "Do you remember the time you fined me $5 for squawking on a decision, when you knew you were wrong?"

"Yes," admitted Hildebrand weakly. "Your fine," continued his honor softly, "is exactly five bucks."

Brewers Victims Of Triple Play But Take Blues

Columbus Red Birds Continue Winning; Cop in Eleventh, 6-2

Kansas City — (P) — The Kansas City Blues scored a triple play to turn back one Milwaukee Brewer last night but due to trouble in the early innings lost the game, 10 to 8.

Milwaukee counted six runs the first inning, three in the second and one in the fourth.

Kansas City pulled the triple play in the seventh inning. Woody Abernathy was on third, Barney Walls on second and Bob Garbaruk on first base. Haley pitched to relief batter Frank Makosky who grounded to third baseman Jack Salzgaver. The throw to the plate forced Abernathy coming from third. The heavy from Dephills to Johnny Sturn at first was late. A throw from first to third to home knocked Walls coming in. Garbaruk was tagged at third after a throw from the catcher.

The score by innings: R. H. E.
Milwaukee 630 100 000—10 13 1
Kansas City 003 003 002—8 15 1

Sullivan, Makosky (6) and Garbaruk; Wenslow, Moran (1), Haley (5) and Dephills, Riddle (8).

The Columbus Red Birds, who have been playing better than 800 percentage baseball in the American association since July 28, gave another example of how they do it last night.

The Birds were forced 11 innings by the Toledo Mudhens, who twice rallied to tie the score. But in the eleventh Columbus cut loose with a four run barrage that settled the contest, 6 to 2.

The victory, the thirty-third for Columbus in its last 41 games, sliced Kansas City's first place advantage to six games. More than that, it kept the Birds a game and a half ahead of Minneapolis.

Southpaw Ernie White went all the way for Columbus, limiting Toledo to six hits.

Harry Smyth also turned in a six-hit performance as Minneapolis defeated St. Paul 7 to 3.

A third six hitter was produced at Louisville where Earl Caldwell of Indianapolis' shut out the Colonels, 2 to 0. Successive hits by Benny Zientara, Leonard Scott and Milt Galanter gave Indianapolis its run in the third inning.

Ace Golfers Enter $5,000 Anthracite Open Tournament

Seranton, Pa. — (P) — Contestants in the second annual $5,000 Anthracite open golf tournament got in a final practice round today as two of the year's best players sent in their entries.

Lawson Little, national open champion, and Byron Nelson, fresh from his victory in the P.G.A. telegraphed the Seranton Country club that they would compete for the $1,200 first prize.

Also entered in the 72-hole medal play tournament is Sammy Snead, West Virginian who fought Nelson right up to the last green in the P.G.A. final. Snead was runner-up to Henry Picard, of Hershey, in the tournament last year. Picard is again entered as are former open champion Ralph Guldahl, Horton Smith, Tony Penna, and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison.

Three Teams Still in Thick of 3-Eye Fight

By the Associated Press
The Three Eye league pennant fight still bore the stamp of a three-team affair as the race headed into its final four days.

Cedar Rapids jumped back into the thick of the scramble last night when it defeated Moline, 7 to 3, as Decatur saw its long winning streak finally snapped and pace setting Springfield fell before Madison.

This combination of events left Cedar Rapids and Decatur tied for second place, a game and a half behind Springfield.

Clinton, getting away to a 6 to 1 lead in the first two innings, broke Decatur's victory string at 16 by winning, 7 to 1 behind Herb Anderson's three hit pitching. Kash scattered eight hits to give Madison a 4 to 0 decision over Springfield, in the other came fourth place Evansville trounced Waterloo, 9 to 8.

BIG BUSINESS. — (P) — When Ohio State's gridiron start play in the big Buckeye bowl this fall, 2,000 persons will go to work in its rim. They will include 250 vendors, 10 maids, four nurses, 24 interns, 300 program hawkers, 24 ticket sellers, 200 gamemen, 60 city police and 100 deputies.

Milwaukee Firemen Scheduled At Clintonville Friday Night

Clintonville — When Clintonville residents hear fire sirens shrieking and fire trucks rumbling up the street Friday afternoon they needn't look to see if their home is on fire. It'll be the way Clintonville will welcome the Milwaukee Firemen baseball team which Friday evening will play the Trunkers in an exhibition game under the lights. The Milwaukee delegation will be met outside the city limits with both city fire trucks and will be escorted in royal fashion. Last year the Trunkers were host to the Chicago Firemen who were afforded the same hospitality.

The Firemen have a classy ball club and are at the top of the American Federated league, rated as one of the strongest circuits in the city. This week the Milwaukee club will play at Hartford on Thursday evening at Clintonville Friday, and will appear against the state prison nine at Waupun Saturday.

Northern State Notes

The Northern State league will wind up its season this Sunday in a blaze of glory as four games are scheduled. Interest is sizzling hot as the results of the week-end contests will decide the second lap champions.

Sunday morning Manitowoc will be at home to Two Rivers. The Ships are right on the spot and a victory by the Polar Bears would, just about put them out of the running for top position in the second half of the race.

After the game with Two Rivers, Manitowoc will head for Seymour where they are booked to face Row and company in the closing part of a twin bill. The opening contest will bring the old rivals, Clintonville and Seymour, into action.

In the other engagement on Sunday, New London invades Two Rivers for an afternoon argument. The High Lites have been tough nuts for the Polar Bears to crack all season and it should be a bitter engagement between the teams.

Seymour advanced into first position by scoring victories over Manitowoc and Two Rivers contenders for the second half championship. Bill Row's club is hitting on all cylinders and the pennant race is buzzing around pretty lively.

Larry Roek dipped Manitowoc in the whitewash bucket, 1-0. He allowed five bingles while Heshel the Ship's twiler, was only touched for three bingles. It was a well fielded game with both clubs playing tight ball on the defense.

Seymour made the only run of the game in the ninth stanza. Ane Kelly worked Heshel for a walk and then moved up to second on a passed ball. Baldy Eager's single into right field enabled Kelly to dent the rubber.

A seven-run barrage in the fifth inning enabled Seymour to take Two Rivers into camp at the Lake Shore City. Everything went haywire for the Polar Bears in this round and the visitors raced around the bases.

Norm Clusman headed the Seymour attack with three doubles and a single in four trips to the box. Jack Lamers and Outfielders Eager each got a couple of blows to help.

Softball Teams In U. S. Tourney

Defending Champions Put Titles on Block In Curtain Raisers

Detroit — (P) — The defending world champions in both men's and women's divisions put their titles on the block here tonight in a "sudden death" curtain raiser to the 1940 champions of the Amateur Softball association of America.

Carr's boosters of Covington, Ky., defending men's champions, meet the Detroit Metropolitan champions, and the Alameda, Calif., defending women's titlists oppose the Keller girls, Detroit women's champions, in opening first-round tilts at the University of Detroit stadium.

Since one defeat means elimination, the defenders must hew their way through all opposition without a setback in order to retain their titles.

Others of the 90 clubs competing in the tournament play their first round games tomorrow, and officials expect all but four to be eliminated by Monday night, when title games are scheduled in both divisions.

The tournament entries, the cream of the nation's 500,000 softball clubs, represent 44 states, Puerto Rico, and Canada. Every team entered has won the right to do so by winning a state or metropolitan championship.

The first round pairings for Friday include:
Men's division:
California versus Indiana, Illinois versus Denver, Kentucky versus Milwaukee, Oklahoma versus Chicago, and Wisconsin versus Toronto.

Women's division:
Milwaukee versus Cleveland, Chicago versus Nebraska, Arkansas versus Indiana, Wisconsin versus Oklahoma, and Missouri versus Illinois.

Dukes Gain in Drive For Playoff Position

Minneapolis — (P) — Duluth's Dukes, fighting for a place in the Northern league playoff, gained a notch on the fourth place Wausau Lumberjacks last night by winning the first game of a doubleheader, 9-8, then finishing the second game in five innings in a 1-1 deadlock.

The result left Wausau 31 games ahead of the Dukes and three games behind Superior which defeated Eau Claire 5-2.

Grand Forks defeated Winnipeg, 4-1. Duane "Lefty" Sloat hurling his 15th victory of the season. Crookston rallied for three runs in the ninth to down Fargo-Moorhead, 6-3.

For they're the only ones showing any great amount of interest. Promoter Mike Jacobs is looking for somewhat better returns than he would have received if the scrap had gone on as originally scheduled at the Polo grounds a month ago. He predicts a $50,000 sale. Still the general public hasn't been mobbing the box office.

It was a lopsided favorite before the Aug. 25 date but the odds-makers gave him only a 5 to 8 edge now.

Major Neyland Is Gloomy Over Tennessee's Grid Prospects

(This is one of a series on prospects of leading college football teams.)

BY HARRY P. SNYDER
Knoxville, Tenn. — If you don't mind too much, Major Robert Neyland, Tennessee's grid coach, won't clamber over the prediction limb.

Most everyone knows that the volunteers have been big stuff the past two years, wrapping up a string of 23 wins—15 of them without the foe scoring—before getting knocked off, 14 to 0, by Southern California in the Rose Bowl last New Year's day.

This autumn the Vols begin anew but where they'll land in national ratings is a question the major would prefer that the team answer.

The answer likely will be given on the second stop of the 10-game campaign—when Duke's highly-rated Blue Devils come here.

Through three days of double-port workout, the major has seen his squad of 48 young hopefuls. They are continuing work on the traditional single wingback, balanced line system, retaining the huddle, and armed with a portfolio of about 30 plays.

And when the inevitable query strikes the major, he answers with a shake of the head:
"I'm always pessimistic, but this year I'm more so."

"Sure, we've got seniors—bushy, capable, seasoned men—but we're short on reserves. We've got to depend on our sophomores—unknowns. If they come through—"

His words stopped. He looked far away.

From last year's starters, graduation clipped tailback George (Bad News) Cafego, fullbacks Len Coffman and Joe Wallen, blocking back Sam Bartholomew, tackle Boyd Clay, and center Jimmy Rike.

"You can't lose fellows like those and not feel it," commented the man who started his coaching career 20 years ago at West Point, his alma mater. The major retired from the U. S. army engineer corps four years ago but is subject to call to active service in the event the nation goes to war.

Here are the men around whom the new Vols will be built—all America Ed Molinski and Bob Sufbridge, guards; Marshall Shires tackle; Ed Cifers and Jim Coleman, ends; and Bob Fox, doubling at tailback—Cafego's spot—and wingback.

To fill the gaps, Neyland is looking toward Norbert Ackerman, center; Bill Luttrell, tackle; Fred Newman, fullback; Ike Peel, blocking back; and Bob Andridge, wingback.

Likely looking sophomores—all backs—include Jim Swartzinger, Bill Nowling, Bill Meek and Chester Robertson.

About that ominous Duke game. Neyland says:
"We hear that my good friend, Wallace Wade, has good men four and five deep. We can only hope to be ready."

Kramer Joins Ranks Of Those Who May Be Able to Beat Riggs
New York — (P) — In casting around for some one who could dethrone Bobby Riggs from his national singles tennis throne, the experts recently voted Don McNeill of Oklahoma City and Frank Kovacs of Oakland the most likely to succeed.

Now the select twosome is a trio. Standing directly in the way of everyone with championship ambitions is 19 year old Jack Kramer of Belvedere Gardens, Calif.

Zuppke Holds His Ground on Huddle System

Differs Sharply With Those Who Prefer to Call Plays in Open

Champaign, Ill. — (P) — Bob Zuppke, who first introduced the huddle into modern football in 1919, differs sharply with those who think the quarterback can bark signals to his team better from behind the scrimmage line.

"Signal calling at the line of scrimmage does not make for better quarterbacking because the defense can shadow its positions while the quarterback is looking over their alignment," Zuppke said. "If the quarterback calls a shift formation he won't know anything about the final disposition of the defense. Giving signals at the line will not reduce the number of defenses because of this last minute deployment by the defending team."

(Harry Stuhldreher, athletic director and football coach at the University of Wisconsin, said after the recent All-Star game in Chicago that he believed the signal caller could diagnose plays better from behind the line of scrimmage than he could in a huddle. Harry's quarterbacks have used both systems interchangeably in recent years.)

Simplifies Signals
"The huddle simplifies signals," Zuppke continues. "Because the quarterback can call plays by simple numbers instead of a complicated set, which is necessary at the line, where the defense might become familiar with a simple number."

"The huddle does not complicate signal-calling because the quarterback may stand to one side, decide on his play, then step into the huddle and call it."

"The huddle does not take any more time, more often it requires less."

"The big point is that the huddle is much simpler than the quarterback is not in it, as at Illinois, until he has decided on his play. It is a help also for players who have difficulty in remembering signals."

not exactly new, but the confidence he gained last week in winning the national doubles with Ted Schroeder is brand new. He already has swept aside Gil Hunt of Washington, D. C. who can, on a given day, be the best tennis player in the country; Eddie Allou, another tough foeman; and Sidney B. Wood, former Wimbledon champion.

The manner in which he played yesterday in stopping Wood had the experts digging up adjectives. He faced a tough test today in big Hank Prusoff, the Seattle giant.

Neenah Ordered To Abandon City Garbage Dump

Town Menasha Gives Council 20 Days to Drop Use of Grounds

Neenah—The city council faced an ultimatum last night when City Clerk H. S. Zenlock informed the aldermen at a meeting at city hall that the city has been served notice by the board of health of the town of Menasha that if it does not discontinue its public dumping grounds in the town within 20 days the board will institute legal proceedings against the city.

The aldermen authorized Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs, City Attorney John W. O'Leary and the clerk to contact the state highway commission and determine whether application for another public hearing on construction of a second bridge over the Fox river would be favorably received at this time.

The council also authorized the clerk to notify Neenah supervisors on the Winnebago county board as well as the board itself that it is strongly in favor of having the proposed county airport located between Neenah and Oshkosh and is as strongly opposed to the proposed site south of Oshkosh.

Following considerable discussion on legislation toward promoting the construction of a garbage incinerator the council instructed the mayor, clerk and attorney to arrange a meeting with town of Menasha officials to point out the work that is underway toward elimination of the dumping grounds.

Hire 'Pied Piper'
In the meantime, the clerk was authorized to secure the services of a "Pied Piper" of Oshkosh, a man who guarantees his methods of eliminating pests, to eradicate the rats at the dump. It was pointed out that the infestation of rats is the town's chief complaint, the rats migrating from the dump to the farms.

It was explained at the meeting that at present the Neenah-Menasha sewerage commission is investigating the feasibility of combining the incinerator for sewage disposal with garbage disposal on a joint basis. The amount of garbage hauled in each community has been determined and these compiled figures have been turned over to the engineers who supervised construction of the plant.

There hardly is a council meeting at which one or more members don't approach the bridge problem, and when brought up last night, it again was pointed out that it would be futile for the city to apply for a hearing if the state department has no funds available for the work.

City officials were informed last night that money was not available, but the council agreed with Aldermen John Heigl that the officials should find out whether there was enough money now.

Wants Port Closer
Alderman Heigl also was the proponent of the legislation on the county airport site. He contended that locating the airport between Oshkosh and Fond du Lac would serve the latter city and not Neenah and Menasha. He pointed out that the taxes from the Twin Cities are paying a large part of that airport, so it should be accessible to Neenah and Menasha.

The council confirmed Mayor Kalfahs' appointment of Ambrose Owen to the library board, succeeding Earl Thompson, who, the mayor reported, declined reappointment.

Alderman Knud Larsen, chairman of the committee on utilities charged that the city isn't receiving enough illumination for the money it pays out. He contended that there must be something wrong with the electrical system and that the bulbs are not clean.

Zenlock reported that there are at least three short circuits in the system, but, he explained, these generally are caused by excavations for sewers when the underground wires are damaged, later resulting in short circuits. Asserting that correction of short circuits is an expensive job, for the fires are under the sidewalks, the clerk suggested that the city employ a practical electrician to take care of the large amount of electrical work for the city.

Larsen's committee was authorized to meet with officials of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company to investigate the matter as well as consider the clerk's suggestion of employing an electrician and also to make a tour of the city to determine where there is insufficient illumination.

Addition Approved
The council approved Lebers Adams street addition. The addition, on W. Adams street between Freshmen students will be at the state university campus the preceding week for orientation ceremonies and the annual freshmen convocation.

More than 40 students from the Twin Cities will be upperclassmen at the University of Wisconsin late this month. Charles Curtis, 210 River street, will be a junior in the chemistry course. Miss Dorothy Baenke, 753 Maple street, will be a sophomore in the college of liberal arts. Warren Beyer, 1009 Nicolet boulevard, will be a sophomore in chemistry. Hardt Says Army Maneuvers Show Equipment Need

Neenah—Dan Hardt, Neenah, lieutenant colonel of the 128th Infantry, Wisconsin National guard, declared that the summer army maneuvers indicated the crying need for equipment in an address to the Neenah Rotary club Wednesday noon at Hotel Menasha.

The lieutenant colonel described the maneuvers and the handling of 65,000 men at the encampment. The men were thrown into maneuvers immediately without any hardening. If they had had three months of hard preliminary training, their condition probably would have been better.

Only 13 per cent of the men became ill at the camp in spite of the fact that it rained 10 of the days during the encampment and some of the men went four days at a stretch without dry clothes.

Yaley Enters Semis Of Tennis Tourney

Neenah—Fred Yaley has advanced to the semi-finals of the Class A tennis tournament being conducted by Lee Royer, WPA recreation director, at Smith park. In the fourth round Yaley won on a forfeit from H. Karrow while in the quarter-finals he defeated E. Beattie 6-0, 6-2.

Yaley will meet J. Asmus in the semifinal round and the winner of that match will play George Bendt for the Class A championship. Medals will be awarded to the champions in each of the three classes of the tournament.

In Class B two players have won first round matches on forfeits. J. Krautkramer won on a forfeit from J. Brethauer and Jack Pinkerton won on a forfeit from L. Block. One match remains to be played before pairings can be arranged for the Class C meet. W. Riley must play O. Schommer. Players defeated in the first round of Class B will be paired in the Class C tournament.

John street and Western avenue, consists of 10 lots.

The aldermen also authorized installation of sidewalks on the west side of S. Park avenue from Fairview avenue south for about four blocks. Sewers also will be installed, and a petition recently voted by the council to the county board for paving of the avenue will be sent to the board for action at its November term. The avenue is part of the county trunk system.

The council approved the recommendation of the committee on public improvements to petition the Neenah-Menasha sewerage commission to conduct a survey of the sewer systems of Neenah and Menasha to determine the cause of backing up of sewage in the sanitary sewers. In the meantime, it was pointed out, Neenah officials are checking to see that all property owners have disconnected outlets from roof drains from the sanitary sewers.

Alderman Edward Schultz, chairman of the finance committee, reported that last month the city incurred 168 accounts totaling $17,212.55. The larger bills included the purchase of land for the extension of Laudan boulevard $2,142.16, concrete $2,500, relief $1,457.92, street lighting $1,256.87, construction of manholes $1,000, sewer pipe $630 road oil $460.20 and sewer trenching $440.44.

A claim entered by Dorothy Gemmel, Menasha, for damage done to an automobile tire when it struck a hole at Hewitt street and N. Park drive was disallowed. It was pointed out that the road, which was under construction, was barricaded.

A petition for construction of a sidewalk on the east side of Western avenue from Adams street to Riverlawn avenue was referred to the committee on streets. Applications for a Class D beverage license by Kathleen Thernansen and for an operator's license by James L. Halle were granted.

Truck Is Purchased
The low bid submitted by the Twin City Motors for the purchase of a light truck for the street department was accepted by the council. The bid totaled $594.50.

The council agreed to hire a young man at 50 cents an hour to make the annual check on the number of dogs in the city. This survey, according to Alderman Heigl, is required by state law. The man will be hired and work under the supervision of John Blenker, city assessor.

Alderman Schultz reported that the services of two engineers, Ray Vanderwalker and William Marty, have been secured to conduct the investigation on the alleged sound nuisance in Neenah. He said he would report at the next meeting.

Pupils From Second Ward May Register At Butte des Morts

Menasha—Second ward children will be permitted to register at Butte des Morts school, as the result of a conference between members of the board of education and the council Wednesday night at the city hall. After the children have registered the board will try to establish an equitable zoning district for school attendance.

Residents from the south end of the Second ward have protested because, under the old zoning ordinance, which was put into effect this year, their children were scheduled to go to Nicolet school instead of Butte des Morts school, which is in the Second ward and is a half-mile closer.

Edward Zeiminger, Second ward alderman, led the protest at the council meeting Tuesday night. He pointed out that small children going to Nicolet school from the Second ward must cross several dangerous corners, the railroad tracks, the mill district, and two bridges.

The board of education decided to enforce the zoning ordinance again this year to equalize the teaching load in the different grade schools. Some Second ward parents sent their children to Butte des Morts school Tuesday and the children were sent home again.

Destroyer Deal Is Fine if There Isn't a Joker in It

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
Washington—If nothing else is involved in the deal with Great Britain except what is mentioned in the public documents then it is, as our officials describe it, a monumental accomplishment toward our national defense.

We paid $25,000,000 for the Virgin Islands alone, and in addition have had to assume heavy expenses for supporting the economic life of the islands. Britain gives us sites for naval and air bases, on lease, without our having to assume the economic drain of administering the civil affairs of the islands involved, which are mostly minus quantities economically.

Fifty over-age destroyers are a small price to pay for the acquisition of these invaluable naval and air bases. It is because this exchange is so much to our advantage that one is tempted to question whether the fifty destroyers are all that Britain expects in payment.

The people of both countries are entitled to know whether anything else is involved. We are entitled to know whether we have acquired an obligation of any kind to extend further aid. The British people should not be allowed to build hopes that this deal means the United States goes into the war next winter.

Some people here believe that a sequel to this transaction is to be our entry fully into the war after election. The record should be made clear that no such obligation is involved. We do not want the British people to charge next winter that we have run out on them. In fairness to them it should be recorded that they have no reason to expect us to participate in the war with Germany unless it moves toward our side of the Atlantic.

Attorney General Jackson's opinion knocked the mosquito boats out of the deal and left us giving only the 50 destroyers, nevertheless the note of British Ambassador Latham mentions that the exchange is to be "for naval and military equipment and material." Secretary Hull's note mentions the transfer of 50 destroyers "in consideration" of the British offer. Is it in "full" consideration, or is payment on account?

Should Be No Hope Of Alliance in the Making

To reassure the public that the destroyers would not be surrendered to Germany, Secretary Hull nailed down a commitment from Churchill based on the prime minister's June 4 speech to commons in which he said the British fleet would, if British waters became untenable, be transferred overseas. But Churchill also said in the same sentence that, from overseas, the British fleet would "carry on the struggle until in God's good time the new world, with all its power and might sets forth to the liberation and rescue of the old."

That suggests an expectation that eventually we will be in to help. Churchill said two weeks ago that the lease of bases will mean England and the United States will have to be somewhat mixed up together in some of their affairs and that he did not view the process with any misgivings. "No one can stop it," he said. "Like the Mississippi, it just keeps rolling along. Let it roll on full flood, inexorable, irresistible, broader lands and better days." Lord Halifax, foreign minister, spoke of our "inexorable" fusion of interests. Former war minister Horre-Belisha spoke of a possible common citizenship between the people of Britain and the United States.

Thus British statesmen apparently are trying to tell their people that an Anglo-American alliance is in the making and that they can expect us to join in their struggle.

Practically all of us now see that British survival is of enormous value to America. Some think it is so important that we should go to war. Our national interest does dictate our giving material help. But it does not call for our going in to save Britain with a war. If England can be held only with American fighting aid, then it is an outpost that would be too costly to hold permanently against Europe's Hitler.

It would be unfortunate if on the basis of the present exchange the people of Britain gathered the idea that we were soon to follow our destroyers across with our full might.

Ground Broken for Huge Plane Plant

Baltimore—(P)—Ground was broken Wednesday at the Glenn L. Martin aircraft factory for a huge addition which, company officials said, would more than double bomber production and plant space, and provide employment for 37,000 men—or 24,000 more—within the next year.

Glenn L. Martin, company president, described the expansion program as the first by any American military aircraft company under the new national defense program.

While government observers looked on, Martin turned the first spadeful of earth, and declared production would be increased "two and a half times" within the coming 12 months.

The plant now is turning out three large bombers daily. Martin declined to say what the stepped-up production would be, saying merely it would conform to the "ultimate requirements" set by the government.

Wants Panama to Pass Treason Law Against Fifth Column Groups

Des Moines, Ia.—(P)—The desk sergeant picked up the telephone to hear a childish voice inquire: "Will you please send the police right away? There's a tramp in our yard."

Must Spend Money to Make Money

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The habits of a lifetime are hard to break. In the old style economy on which most of us were brought up, you had to struggle for everything and hold on to what you had already amassed. What bridge players need is a philosophy which would rephrase in terms of bridge the motto: "You have to spend money to make money." Certainly West, in the hand below, would have done better with such a slogan to guide him.

South, dealer.

The bidding:
1 club West
2 no trump East
Pass Pass

After West's overall of one spade, North felt justified in shading the trump requirements for a raise. With two aces he had to take some action, and the raise was the best bid at his command. South's rebid on a rather skimp hand was based on the assumption that North's raise solidified the trump suit. In that event there would be six club tricks as a nucleus for a no trump game. North, with an honor in every suit and with no reason to prefer clubs to no trump, naturally raised to game.

West opened the queen of hearts, dummy winning with the ace. The club finesse was taken and lost to West's king. Declarer took the heart return with his king and ran all of his clubs.

In order to relieve West from a possibly embarrassing guess, East signaled diamond strength by discarding first the six and then the deuce of diamonds. But West's habit was to nullify the effect of this signal.

Declarer's last five cards were the four spades and a diamond. West had the ace-queen of spades, the ten of hearts, and the king-ten of diamonds. When South led a diamond to dummy's ace West gleefully played the ten since it was sufficient to drive out dummy's ace. But then a heart return put West on lead with no choice but to take his high cards and surrender a spade trick to South.

Had West not been so concerned with preserving the king of diamonds, he could have defeated the contract. By playing the king on declarer's diamond lead, he would have retained a card of exit after the heart throw-in. East would have been able to win the diamond and lead a spade thru declarer.

My Neighbor Says—

Light is the most important factor governing the growth of house plants. If possible, they should be placed in windows with a south-eastern exposure and turned frequently so that they will keep in good symmetrical shape.

Baked oranges are just as good as lemons for a cold. Cut off top of orange, remove pith, put in a teaspoon each of orange sirup and lime juice, and bake until heated through.

When serving oysters on the half-shell leave oysters on deep halves of shells, allowing six to each person. Place on plates of crushed ice, with small ends toward the center and where they meet place a half of a lemon cut in points and sprinkled with a few grains of paprika.

A cupful of chicken stock added to lamb stew improves the flavor of the stew.

They are the World's Champion Neighbors

Tulsa, Okla.—(U)—The registrar questioning an 85-year-old woman who wanted a birth certificate for her 65-year-old son, discovered a situation that should set a record for neighborliness.

The registrar suggested the woman obtain the signature of a non-relative who knew of the birth and who knows the son.

"That's easy," said she. "My next-door neighbor lived next door to me when he was a little baby in Missouri and she's lived next door to me here for 30 years."

"In fact during the last 30 years we haven't lived more than a stone's throw apart."

Beauty and You

BEAUTY SELF-TREATMENT—With steady hand, this young beauty pulls out the stragglers which make her brows appear untidy. Note the professionally shaped tweezers.

Eye grooming is one of the most important and effective of all beauty efforts.

Dr. Mayo of Rochester claims we receive eighty-seven percent of our impressions through our eyes. That means, my pets, that other persons get instant impressions of YOU and catalogue you as a meticulous or indifferent beauty. Neat, trim eyebrows give a tidy appearance and pay good beauty dividends.

One must have a precise eyebrow tweezer. There is a new, professional one on the market with scissor handles and so shaped to allow a completely unobstructed view of what you are doing. These tweezers can unerringly grasp a single hair and with a quick pull, remove the untidy straggler.

Before you begin to tweeze, though, apply to your brows a cloth dipped in hot water and hold it there for a minute or two. This softens the hairs and opens the skin pores. Cream rubbed around the roots also helps. But remove this cream (and all brow or lash coloring) before tweezing with a bit of cotton saturated in medical alcohol. It's safer to sterilize your tweezers in alcohol too. You can keep a small bottle in your medicine chest.

How to Pull

Grasp the hair tightly at the root and pull quickly in the same direction in which the hair grows. Remember too, that good eye-grooming is made easier today by the fashion of NATURAL shaped brows. No longer is it smart to pluck them out so only a hair line remains, or to distort them in peculiar arches.

The upper line of the brows gives your face much of its uniqueness, so don't change it much. Simply strive to have it sleek by removing stray hairs which have grown above it.

Remove any hair which grows above the bridge of the nose and any stragglers below the arch of the brow.

If your brows are very thick it is best to narrow them by plucking along the lower arch, instead of attempting to thin the beetles. Thick brows take a good deal of lubricating and brushing to keep them in sleek, ruly arches.

How to Accent Your Brows

Once your arches are shapely, you may accent them if you desire. This is done by using a medium-hard pencil in one of the brown shades. Black seems too black even for very dark brows.

If your face is wide, and your brows short, elongate them. If your brows are thin or light, make them appear thicker and darker by applying short feather-like strokes with the pencil.

Always use your pencil with a light touch—as though you were sketching individual hairs in slanting lines as the real hair grows. Keep your pencil finely pointed for the best results.

Once darkened, brush your eyebrows with a small brush designed for that purpose, and if they lack sheen you may apply a bit of lash cream. That will step up the lustre without adding any color.

Good Taste Today by Emily Post

SEPARATED COUPLE

I am sure that most of my readers will find this letter, sent to me this morning, as appealing as it was to me, and for this reason I am giving it in full: "Dear Mrs. Post: I'm almost happier than the first time I was married, because now I know how much being John's wife really means! Impulsively we parted several years ago and were later divorced because neither of us was 'big enough' to make willing allowances for differences of temperament and to realize the risk that nursing petty annoyances can be to a happiness that is alone worth cherishing. In the three long years of stubbornness to hide remorse, I realized what a mistake I'd made, and then I found out that it had been the same with John. So now we're remarrying. We have many friends in many places who would, I'm sure, be so glad to hear that we are back together again. May we send announcements a second time, or would this be in bad taste?"

The fact that your friends are many and scattered is a very good reason for sending announcements, since any other way of letting them know would be impractical. The form should be:

Mr. and Mrs. John Once-Were announce their remarriage on Thursday the twelfth of September, Nineteen hundred and forty.

Present For The Baby

Dear Mrs. Post: When do you suggest I send a present for the new baby, before the baby arrives so that it can be put away in anticipation of the event, or afterward when one goes to see the baby?

Answer: While either one is proper, it might be best, if you know the mother-to-be slightly, to wait. On the other hand, if you are a very intimate friend, she might be especially pleased to have it before-hand to look at and put away.

No Dinner Napkin In Vest

Dear Mrs. Post: Quite awhile ago I read out a newspaper clipping that said, "It is permissible, according to table manner etiquette, for a man to tuck his napkin high up in his vest." I had quite an argument about this with a friend, and she claims that I am not only wrong, but that I am doing you an injustice in claiming this to be cut from your column. (There is no name of writer or paper attached.)

Answer: No, it is not mine. I never wrote that it was considered

Telling Own Names to Strangers Is Torment

BY ANGELO PATRI

"What a dear little boy he is. What is your name, sonny?" Forsyth frowned, put his hands behind his back and backed from the gushing lady.

"Now don't be shy, darling. I'm your Aunt Lilly. What is your name?" Forsyth looked pleadingly at his mother and at the door.

"Tell the lady your name. You know your name. Speak up like a real boy."

Further and further toward the door the small boy backed, his mouth tightly shut. In another instant he would be near enough to turn and dart through that doorway and escape his tormentor. But mother would not have it. After all, the child knew his name, his telephone number, his father's name and address. He must learn to speak up and tell his name when it is asked of him.

"Stand still, Forsyth. Tell the lady your name and then you can go. I want you to tell the lady your name. No nonsense. Speak right up."

"I don't know it," muttered the child behind his lips.

"Of course you know it. Say it or I'll punish you. Right now."

"I can't say it," cried the desperate child, and faced for the door.

Let Him Escape

When this happens let the child alone. He knows his name. But don't you know that saying one's name out in public is akin to undressing there for most of us? A shy child—and most children of four are shy before strangers, and no shame to them—cannot say his own name out loud, especially when it is a gushing lady who asks it. Instinctively the child knows she is not really caring what his name is, and anyhow he can't say it. Let him alone. Say it for him, give him a pat on the shoulder to encourage him, and let him escape.

We teach little children their names, telephone numbers, father's name and address, as a safety measure. We write their names and addresses inside their pockets, on their coat collars, so they can be identified when lost and perhaps too overcome to tell these facts. We hope that when they are in trouble they will be able to call on this information, and they usually are.

A lost child is frightened. He knows that a policeman will help him to get home if he tells him his name and address. His distress drives the shyness, which is a personal feeling roused by the environment, out of his mind. Keep teaching the child that the officer in the blue coat with the brass buttons is his good friend in time of need. When the need comes he will usually ask for help. When a child enters school someone is usually with him to tell his name. The experienced teacher does not ask him to tell his name right out loud the first time she meets him. She asks his guardian, and then she addresses him by his name, and after that the child has no dread of telling her his full title. This is an idiosyncrasy of childhood and it should be respected.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Case Records of a Psychologist

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Marriage is the greatest game in life, but like all other games, it has its rules. If you follow them wisely and play the batting averages, you may joyously celebrate your Golden Wedding. If you want your "blueprint for happy marriage," then be sure to study Elsie's case carefully and send for my Tests for Husbands and Wives, based on confidential interviews with 1,200 happily married men and women.

CASE R-164: Elsie S., aged 33, is an office secretary.

"Perhaps you remember me?" she similingly inquired. "Two years ago you gave me some valuable advice after my boy friend had left me to marry another girl."

"Your suggestions then were what I needed. I am glad I could get a new perspective. But now I have another boy friend in whom I am very much interested."

"We have enjoyed long hours of companionship. Our likes and dislikes are similar. At first, however, he kept reminding me that he was a bachelor and intended to remain one."

"Now he asks me if I can cook and do I like children. He is only 30 so I fibbed about my age and let him think I was younger than he is."

The Religious Difficulty

"There is one real difficulty which my mother warns me will cause trouble. He is Catholic while we are Protestant. But I know several other couples who appear to have faced the problem satisfactorily. At least, they seem to be happy to all outward appearances."

"He is a good worker and has held a steady job for seven years. He is healthy and strong. He enjoys people and has a keen sense of humor."

"I don't feel like waiting indefinitely for some man who may be just exactly what I desire. Yet if I am going to break off with my boy friend, I should do so before it is too late."

"Besides, if I want to rear a family, it should be accomplished before nature decides to withdraw that privilege. Dr. Crane, do you think our differences in age form a serious bar to happiness? And what about our religious differences?"

Play the Batting Averages.

You may have observed several interesting items in Elsie's conversation. She was jilted two years ago and felt that life wasn't worth living. At that time she said she could never be interested in a man again.

But she resolutely went back into social affairs, as I recommended, and now her previous romance is just a faded memory. Remember the sensible army policy with aviators who crash. If they are able to walk, they are sent right back up with another plane so that defeatism and failure will not fill their minds.

In similar fashion, don't become a silly juvenile self-pitier when you have lost a loved one. Keep playing the game of life according to the sound psychological rules, and you may still initiate a 9th inning rally!

Please observe, too, Elsie's shrewd analysis of her boy friend's assets. They have similar tastes. He is a good worker. He has radiant health and vitality. He likes people and has a good sense of humor.

Age And Religious Differences

At the age of 33, you will see that Elsie is using good common sense in analyzing herself and her fiancé. What about the age difference? Tell him the truth, and if he loves her, a mere matter of 3 years will not deter him.

As for religious differences, I have previously advised you that it is usually best to select the reli-proper for a man to tuck his napkin in his waistcoat, not that he could tuck it in his collar! Nor did I ever say he could tie it around his neck!

YESTERDAY: Jeff and Sandra, now married, arrive at the Inn just as Julia and Kay are leaving. Julia accuses Sandra of playing a dirty trick on Jeff because people are saying she married him to protect him.

Chapter 22

Ivan's Play

I got up and straightened my hair and wandered around the room until I found cigarettes. Adam held a light for me in silence. He had said all he meant to say for the present.

"I'm not sure I know what behavior you're referring to," I told him at last.

"Let's put it this way, then. If I did or said anything last night that offended you I hope you'll forgive me."

"You're forgiven," I said.

He grinned. "I'll be discreet and not ask what for. May I sit down?"

"If you like."

He accepted the grudging invitation and changed the subject.

"What's your idea about this murder?"

"I haven't any. What is there to go on?"

"Nothing, that I can see."

"Have you questioned Sandra and Jeff?"

"Not yet. They came back to the colonel's quarters a while ago to get their things—they've taken a suite of guest rooms down the corridor here. The Pennants tried to get them to stay there, but they wouldn't. And—well, there was so much talk and fuss that I cleared out."

"How is it going to be if one of them did it?" I asked bluntly.

"You mean Sandra or Jeff?"

"Or the Pennants. The reigning family."

"It's going to be tough." He got up and prowled unhappily about the room. "I've been appointed to head the board of inquiry on this and those stolen cars. I'd like to ask for a change of station."

"But you wouldn't get it. You've only been here a couple of months."

"No." He sighed. "It wouldn't be soon enough, anyway. And it

"Then why marry Jeff?" In the

"That strikes me as a woman's line of reasoning," he said finally in a rather pedantic manner. "Which doesn't necessarily mean it's faulty. Set a woman to catch a woman. Perhaps. But I'd like something a little more substantial to go on. A little more logical. Why, for instance, is she a self-appointed agent of vengeance?"

"I think she was in love with him."

"Then why marry Jeff?" In the

"Not much, yet. I haven't had a chance to question Sandra. All she told the Pennants was that she met him in dramatic school. We've been through his luggage, of course. It didn't take long—one suitcase, and it was not full. Maybe he left a trunk in Chicago. I'd have to think what we saw was all he had in the world. Two clean shirts and the one he arrived in. A pair of pajamas. Shaving kit. A change of socks and underwear. His only suit was hanging in the closet. Colonel Pennant loaned him the bathing trunks he was wearing when he was killed."

"Was there anything in the pockets of the suit?"

"Some small change and less than five dollars in bills. No watch. An address book full of names—some of them sounded familiar to me, but I brought it along for you to look at. Brought something else, too, that we found in the suitcase. It may interest you. Anyway, it's more in your line than mine."

He picked up the folder from the table where he had placed it, opened it and took out a small paper-bound address book which he handed to me without comment.

I opened it and began to read the scrawled names and addresses. I could feel Adam watching me.

"Here's one that I know," I said presently. "It's a firm of literary agents in New York. Here's another—two more. And who's this man Fremont? The name's familiar. Isn't he a producer? The next one is, anyway. Everyone knows him. And Jane Urshell, the actress—how do you suppose he got her address?"

"Reunion in Moscow"

I turned the pages, noted that the list was long, that it changed abruptly from New York to Hollywood. Studios, names of famous and not so famous directors, firms that were probably theatrical agencies.

"Looks as if Ivan had been canvassing for film pretty thoroughly. Looking for work, I suppose."

"Possibly. But that isn't all. There's this thing here."

He took it out of the folder and looked at it rather helplessly, then

THE HOME GARDENER by EDWIN H. PERKINS

Early September is a fine time to replant many of the perennials. One advantage of this time is that ineffective plant arrangements may be adjusted while they are still fresh in the gardener's mind. Rearrangements that are completed now are encouraged by the mellow sunshine and bound tightly into their new homes through autumn rains. In addition the soil is warm enough to encourage strong root growth.

For some perennials this is the only season of the year in which they can be moved safely. Bleeding hearts, Dicentra spectabilis, and the dwarfed forms as well, are safely moved at this season. Moving them at other times is a gamble.

Despite all our care, the tender roots of bleeding hearts, when dormant as they now are, are sometimes broken in moving. These broken roots are blessings in disguise, if we handle them properly. Each fragment can be planted right side up in a box of sand and it will more than likely soon form a new plant.

For ease in transplanting at a later date, some gardeners treat bleeding-heart root cuttings like those of Oriental poppies—each cutting is started in a pot.

first place, I mean. Before the matter of revenge comes into the picture? Money?"

"No, Jeff hasn't anything," I repeated what Julia had told me of Colonel Tack's will. "I don't know why. Spite, possibly. But that's even thinner reasoning. A woman might marry for spite if she were not in love with anyone else at the time. Hardly otherwise."

"Perhaps Ivan had other ideas and she was trying to bring him around, make him jealous. You haven't said he was in love with her."

I was silent. This was skirting too close to the scene on the barge last night. I wanted to tell Adam about that; I was used to confiding in him. But I didn't dare. I had to remember his official position in the case, that nothing I told him in the way of actual evidence could be considered confidential.

"Who was Ivan, anyway?" I asked, hoping to lead him away from dangerous ground. "What do you know about him?"

"Not much, yet. I haven't had a chance to question Sandra. All she told the Pennants was that she met him in dramatic school. We've been through his luggage, of course. ARABS LIKED LAWRENCE

Many Arabs did not like Turkish rule, but they found trouble in joining together to fight against it. Some of the sheiks, or chiefs, had quarrels among themselves, and there was no leader to whom all felt they could turn.

Another point was their fear of Turkish weapons. Few Arabs had any better arms than spears, swords and old-style muskets. The Turks, on the other hand, had machine guns and cannon. The Germans also sent airplanes to bomb the tribes which had started to revolt.

In this period, a 26-year-old Englishman was quietly going from place to place in Arabia. He was "Lawrence of Arabia." Speaking to the sheiks in their own language, he told them their only hope of winning was through uniting their forces and obtaining arms from Great Britain.

Lawrence riding the motorcycle on which he met his death. Below, a sketch of Lawrence when he was serving in the British R. A. F.

The young man wore the native Arab dress, and kept his promises. He won the good will of many Arab tribes.

British arms were given to the natives, and they were helped in the campaign by French as well as British soldiers. Slowly they drove the Turks back.

The Arabs did not fight in closely-massed armies. They rode from place to place, and made swift attacks. British airplanes flew overhead and did battle with those which the Germans sent to the region.

Lawrence taught the Arabs the value of blowing up bridges. They were supplied with dynamite, and destroyed 79 bridges. In some cases, the Englishman placed the dynamite himself.

Large numbers of Turks were captured, and others were driven into full retreat. When the war ended, the old Turkish empire was cut down greatly in size.

The Arabs did not obtain everything they wanted from their revolt, but they won a larger measure of freedom than they had had before. The new kingdom of Iraq was formed. This kingdom, made up largely of Arabs, later became a member of the League of Nations.

Feeling that his duty was done, Lawrence went back to England, and wrote a widely-known book, "Revolt in the Desert." A few years ago his life was cut short by a motorcycle accident.

Want Poles Off Kimberly Avenue

Kimberly — The Wisconsin Michigan Power company, Appleton, will be asked to remove its poles from Kimberly avenue, the village board decided in a resolution adopted Monday evening. The board will cooperate with the company in acquiring the necessary right-of-way.

Two representatives of the company explained that efforts were being made to improve its service in the village. It was brought out that Kimberly residents believed they were receiving poor service because storms often caused lights to go out in various business places, homes and the village street lights.

The company representative said that the company has 33,000 trees to trim and that the program calls for the trimming of trees once every three years. This summer trees that were trimmed a year ago have grown from 7 to 8 feet, which have been partly the cause.

Bids for 30 tons of stoker coal for the village hall were opened and were tabled for a later date. Those submitting bids were Schultz Fuel company, Appleton; Lieber Lumber and Fuel company, Appleton; and Home Supply company, Kimberly.

The clerk was authorized to borrow $4,000 for current expenses. Bills and claims amounting to $3,825.45 were allowed by the board.

Mrs. William Schweppe, wife of the Rev. W. Schweppe, missionary to Nigeria, Africa, will give a talk before the Mt. Calvary Ladies Aid society at the home of Mrs. Robert Ewer Thursday afternoon. Mrs. R. Ewer and Mrs. William Erdman are hostesses.

Christ De Loeuw and Charles Behling motored through northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan during the last week. On their trip they visited the Minnesota state fair.

Mrs. T. E. Fieweger, formerly of Davenport, Iowa, and Miss Margaret Fieweger of Chicago visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fieweger last week.

Forty hour devotions will be held at Holy Name church Sept. 14, 15 and 16. Confessions will be heard Thursday afternoon and evening for those wishing to receive communion on the first Friday of the month. Next Sunday will be communion day for the Holy Name society and the Boy Scouts of Troop 44.

Paynette Game Farm Seeks Black Squirrels

Waupaca — The state conservation department has asked J. E. Campbell, secretary of the Chain O' Lakes Protective association, to catch a black squirrel for the Paynette game farm.

These sleek black squirrels are vain creatures; they pose in the sunshine eating white fungus, just to show off their fine fur coats. They're very friendly, and they have startling friendships: P. O. Jacobs repeatedly sees a black squirrel in the company of an albino squirrel. J. E. Campbell has seen a black squirrel, encircled by 13 jealous gray cousins, remain cool, aloof and very regal.

Movie Land Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood — The other day I listened while movie-magazine Louis B. Mayer discussed picture plans with a subordinate. It was a free exchange of ideas. Time and again the underling said "No, I don't like that because" or "No, I can't agree." And frequently his arguments won enthusiastic okay's from the most powerful "boss" in Hollywood.

There in a nutshell, I am convinced, is the principal reason for the fact that MGM, with basic assets no greater than those of its chief rivals, can and does turn out hit picture after hit picture, consistently, while others swing wildly, connecting for an occasional home run but more often striking out.

I'm continually hearing Hollywoodites shrug off Metro's record for consistent quality product by saying: "Well, lookit, they've got the biggest directors, the biggest stars." Bosh — most of MGM's production brains have worked, previously, in other studios. They weren't given equal chances to be effective. They wouldn't be doing such fine jobs at Metro, either, if they were expected to be yes-men and nothing more!

It seems incredible to me that other studio bigshots, regarding on the one hand their own ragged records and, on the other, the methods which produce such results at MGM, can fail to see the light, and do likewise.

Idol Chatter: If a two-career gal like Jeanette MacDonald invariably can spare time for courtesies to fans, how come so many would-be Peas-in-a-pod: Virginia Bruce and tennis queen Alice Marble, Mickey Rooney, on a crowded dance floor, always reminds me of a Christmas jumping-jack. In-a-line description of Stan Laurel: A Silly Symphony in person. Fay Holden does not think that fans would learn that she's not Bill Holden's mama. Add odds to something, guess: Edgar Kennedy's school days nickname — Curly. Those things may be fan letters, when they're written, but after delivery they become boast cards. Studies in contrast: The flivver driven by Basil Rathbone — and the custom-built Deussenberg of his stand-in, Ammed Kalane.

Seven years ago in Hollywood: Gary Cooper and Sandra Shaw (real name Veronica Balfe) announced marriage plans. Rumors of an alteration for Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone became more than rumors when she trekked to New York to meet Franchot's folks. . . . Joan Bennett (then Mrs. Gene Markov) "retired" to await a date with Don Stork. . . . Lee Tracy's shouted comments as he watched a Mexico City parade threatened international complications. . . . Movie audience thrilled to a new type of screen entertainment — W. S. Van Dyke's smash hit, "Esquima". The hottest romance gossip focused on Greta Garbo and Director Rouben Mamoulian.

Cuff Notes: That Richard-Ainslee Constance Bennett romance is icy — and there are those who say it was never hot, as represented. . . . Freddie Bartholomew has been inked for a principal role in Andre Charlot's "Review of 1940," to be staged mid-month at the El Capitan theater. . . . It's springtime as far as Betty Grable and Bob (WB's new find) Shore are concerned. . . . Recommended reading: Vic McLaglen's autobiog, "Express to Hollywood," published 6 years ago in England and just now finding Hollywood circulation. . . . Brenda Joyce is furniture-buying for a single apartment because of her mama's decision to toil as house mother for USC's Alpha Delta Pi's.

Casual Slaughters

gave it to me. A manuscript, dog-eared and grimy, bound between heavy cardboard covers which had been ornamented in heavy, scroll-ed lettering.

"Reunion in Moscow," I read. "Cribbed title. By Ivan. That wasn't so dumb. Better than an unpronounceable last name. But a little precious. Like the lettering. Like Ivan himself." I opened the stiff cover, glanced at the worn, typed pages. "A play, by all that's wonderful! He certainly believed in starting at the top. Have you read it?"

"More or less," Adam admitted, looking down his nose. "It's well, I'm no judge of these things, and I don't want to influence you. I want your unbiased opinion."

"My opinion is worthless. I don't know anything about the theater, and from all I've heard few people do. Nobody knows what will make a successful play. But I do know that for an amateur to try to write and market one without help from the inside is as hopeless as building a snow man in hades. Making bricks without straw is a picnic in comparison."

"He seems to have found that out. Apparently he's even tried Hollywood."

"That's worse. The only hope of selling anything to Hollywood is by getting it published first—and well published. Even then it's only a chance. As for unsolicited manuscripts—I thought everyone knew by now that they don't read them."

I spoke from experience. My own, and that of others I knew. The dream of every writer is a movie sale; so far that beneficent lightning had failed to strike in my vicinity.

"No, poor Ivan. He would have been better off to take the money he wasted on postage and play the horses. That way he would have stood some chance of winning."

I paused at the sound of footsteps approaching along the uncarpeted corridor. We looked toward the door which Adam had left standing open, in deference to the proprieties.

The footsteps stopped, and Sandra appeared in the doorway. "Oh! I bag your pardon," she said. "I didn't mean to interrupt."

"No interruption," I said stiffly. I hate people who are always apologizing, making something out of nothing. "Won't you come in?"

She started to make excuses, but

Sherwood Residents Are Back From Trip

Sherwood — Mr. and Mrs. George Mertens returned Monday evening after a 600 mile weekend trip which took them through northern Wisconsin and into Michigan. They visited the Kings Gateway resort, which divides the states of Michigan and Wisconsin. At Montreal they visited with Dr. and Mrs. Mark Garry, former residents of Sherwood, and with Miss Alma Nelson, a friend of Mrs. George Mertens, at her home in Ironwood, Mich.

Miss Dolores Schaefer will leave Friday for Edgerton to resume her teaching duties as a fifth grade teacher in the Edgerton public school system.

Adam sprang up and greeted her as if she were the one person in the world he wanted to see—as indeed she probably was. But there was no professional gleam in his eye to betray that his interest in her was other than social.

I can imagine Adam translated, like the Yankee at King Arthur's Court, bodily to the court at Versailles; but unlike the Yankee, Adam would fit. He might have to take a few lessons in the prevailing fashion in bows and the lace kerchief might embarrass him at first, but those would be details.

Those who were in Iowa were Mesdames C. H. Truesdell, Mary Parrish, J. Christofferson, A. M. Christofferson, O. F. Peterson, Vincent Parrish, Allan Scott, James Carew, C. H. Bachor, O. E. Hanson, William Holden, C. H. Brame, Theodore Peterson and Miss Agnes Johnson.

Garden Club Presents Program in Parlors of Iola Methodist Church

Waupaca — Sixteen members of the local Garden club were in Iola Tuesday afternoon where they presented a program for the Iola club in exchange for one furnished by that organization some months ago. The meeting was held in the parlors of the First Methodist church and consisted chiefly of motion pictures shown by Mrs. William Holden of the Wisconsin Veterans Home and Mrs. Charles Brann of the Chain O' Lakes. Pictures were those taken on the grounds of their respective homes showing flowers, bird feedings, sunsets and other beauty spots. There were also some reels of the Children's forest in northern Wisconsin taken by Mrs. Brann.

Three musical numbers were furnished by Mrs. James Carew who sang without accompaniment, "The Irish Girl," "Sweet Miss Mary" and "God Bless America."

Those who were in Iowa were Mesdames C. H. Truesdell, Mary Parrish, J. Christofferson, A. M. Christofferson, O. F. Peterson, Vincent Parrish, Allan Scott, James Carew, C. H. Bachor, O. E. Hanson, William Holden, C. H. Brame, Theodore Peterson and Miss Agnes Johnson.

Assistant Fire Chief Asks Payment for Damage to Auto

Clintonville—Chauncey Williams, assistant chief of the Clintonville fire department, appeared before the regular September meeting of the common council Tuesday evening in regard to the accident in which he figured on July 29. Mr. Williams suffered injuries about the mouth and his car was damaged to the extent of $275 when his machine crashed into the rear of the fire truck when returning from a fire at the Fredenberg home on Lincoln avenue. The truck had stopped abruptly and because of the slippery condition of the street the Williams car skidded into the truck after the brakes were applied. The city's insurance company has paid compensation for Mr. Williams' injury but refuses to pay for the damages to the car. The aldermen left the matter in the hands of City Attorney A. D. Zwickey.

Alex Bucholtz asked the council for an extension of the sewer to his property on Walnut street in the northwest section of the city. The sewer committee was asked to investigate and bring in a report.

A resolution was passed by the aldermen authorizing the city to borrow amounts up to $25,000 as needed for current expenses.

The monthly bills were allowed and reports were submitted by the street commissioner, milk inspector and police department.

The city attorney was asked to start action in regard to cleaning up the Henry Youngworth property in the northeast section of the city. The place is used for a junk yard.

Rochester, Minn., Tuesday where Miss Gertrude entered the Kahler school of nursing at the Mayo hospital. A graduate of Clintonville High school in 1939, Miss Genskow attended Oshkosh state teachers' college last year.

Mrs. Hannah Shingler entertained at a juvenile party Monday for the sixth birthday of her grandson, Charles Hanson, who lives with her.

Boy Smokes, Gets Sick And Sets House Afire

Madison — (A) Nine-year-old Billy Boaman's first attempt at pipe smoking caused more than a sick stomach. Billy tossed the pipe into a clothes closet of his room and went outside to recover.

The pipe, according to firemen, started a blaze which spread to the bedroom and roof of the Boaman home in the town of Madison. Two Madison fire companies and an Oregon tank truck were required to subdue the fire.

New "Anti-Sneeze" Rinso

98% free of "soap-dust" that causes sneezing!

There's up to a quarter pound of irritating "soap-dust" in many other widely used package soaps

What 98% free of "soap-dust" means to YOU!

It means no cloud of "soap-dust" to make you sneeze.
It means you won't be annoyed by those messy acum-forming soap lumps in the wash-water.
It means longer-lasting suds.
It helps prevent "washday hay-fever" for most women.

WHY sneeze on washday because the soap you use fills the air with "soap-dust"? Why be bothered with lumps of "soap-dust" in the wash-water? Switch to New "Anti-Sneeze" Rinso—it's 98% free of "soap-dust". Rinso spent over $200,000 to get rid of "soap-dust" that causes sneezing. Many widely used package soaps actually contain up to a quarter pound of irritating "soap-dust"! No wonder millions are thrilled by the New "Anti-Sneeze" Rinso!

Whiter, brighter washes—far richer suds; too! The New Rinso goes so much farther than the old—it's like getting free soap every 5th washday! In tub washing, Rinso soaks out dirt. No hard scrubbing or boiling. Clothes come from washers up to 10 shades whiter than with old-style soaps. Try New "Anti-Sneeze" Rinso for speedy dishwashing. Notice that no cloud of sneezy "soap-dust" flies up from the dishpan. Tasy on hands, too. Get the BIG box today.

New Rinso goes so much farther than the old IT'S LIKE GETTING FREE SOAP EVERY 5th WASHDAY
